NEW TREATY BECOMES EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

LEAGUE SANCTIONS FORMALLY APPLIED CREATE PRECEDENT

Fifty-Two Nations Join in Attempt to Force Halt of Aggressive War Waged by Major World Power—Mussolini to Defer New Offensive in Ethiopia

(Copyright, 1935, by the Havas News Agency)

ROME, Nov. 19 (P).—It was learned from usually reliable sources early today that the Fascist Grand Council, in a session ending at midnight, decided immediate large-scale offensive action in Ethiopia should be deferred. Premier Mussolini was understood to have advised such action and to have indicated that negotiations should be resumed with London and Paris to seek a solution for the conflict. It was understood to feel Italy's territorial gains in Ethiopia formed a fruitful basis for agreement.

FORMALLY APPLIED

GENEVA, Nov. 18 (CP-Havas).—An attempt, unprecedented in world history, to force a major power to abandon a war by cutting off vital supplies, was under way tonight with formal application of League of Nations sanctions against Italy by fifty-two member countries.

Observers here predicted it would be some time before the full effect of the relentless stemming of the flow of imports would be felt in Italy, pointing out that there exist in the country considerable stocks of foreign goods.

HOPED-FOR EFFECTS

A summary of the sanction measures taken against Italy reveals that their hoped-for effect will be three-fold: Loss of financial aid, serious scarcity of essential materials and economic stagnation.

TRAPPER USES OWN AIRPLANE

Known as Mystery Man Among Indians of the Frozen North

EDMONTON, Nov. 18 (P).—Canada's only Northern trapper operating his own airplane, J. C. P. Dalziel, twenty-seven, died Saturday when he landed his two-seater monoplane on the thin ice of a Mackenzie River channel at Fort Simpson, N.W.T.

Unheralded, the aviator swept over the Northern settlement and setting the river still running open risked the landing. With him was George Taylor, Edmonton, his aero engineer, who kept the craft flying over Dalziel's far-flung trappings up and down the Mackenzie River basin this fall.

LONG FLIGHT TO MARKET

The youthful adventurer, the first to introduce such modern methods into the ancient art of trapping and who may revolutionize the North's great industry, plans to leave on a 975-mile flight to Edmonton with his load of marten and fox pelts.

THE MYSTERY MAN

His ability to "live off the land," and his habit of wandering over the Northern, appearing first in the Yukon, then at Fort Laid or Fort Simpson, earned him the reputation of "mystery man" among the natives. Northerners claim some Indians are afraid of the youth. They believe he has supernatural powers of endurance.

This summer Dalziel came out of the North and joined the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero Club. He obtained his private licence on July 28, and won his commercial wings on September 12.

CONTESTANTS ENTER LISTS

Battle Lines Drawn for Quebec Elections—Polling on Monday

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (P).—Official nominations today plunged the province of Quebec into the last week of its election campaign with two members of the next Legislative Assembly—the nineteenth—elected by acclamation, and contests in eighty-eight seats.

Battle lines were drawn between the Liberal party, headed by Premier L. A. Taschereau, and the Alliance of Independent-Liberals, Independents and others, producing a number of many-sided fights. Polling will take place next Monday.

Both men returned unopposed as Liberals. Peter Beronowitch, K.C., will again occupy the seat of Montreal-St. Louis, which he has held since 1916, while in Richelieu, J. C. A. Turcotte returns as member. He has held Richelieu since a by-election in 1927.

KEEP THE FACT

Throughout the province Conservatives and Action Libérale Nationale observed the pact between the leaders, Maurice Duplessis, K.C., of the Conservatives, and Paul Gouin, of the third party. These parties are not fighting each other at any point.

The Alliance nominated eighty-seven candidates, while ninety, including the Conservatives, were nominated.

AGREEMENT HITS FURNITURE TRADE

Ontario Manufacturers Fear Competition from Southern United States

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 18 (P).—Lowered tariffs on furniture provided in the Canada-United States trade treaty may result in a "serious situation" in the Canadian furniture industry, D. M. Wright, president of the McLagan Furniture Company, said today. Under the favored nation rates, furniture tariff was reduced from 45 to 30 per cent.

"With the duty up to 45 per cent, we were fairly well protected against manufactured furniture from the Southern United States," Mr. Wright said.

"This change may mean a serious situation, but it all depends on what action is taken in respect to the Southern States, with whom a special duty was arranged a few years ago."

Atlantic Seaboard Cruelly Lashed by Raging Northeaster

Early Storm With Floods, Snow and Ice Takes Heavy Toll of Life and Property in Four Eastern States

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (P).—With a change of wind to the northwest, the worst early winter storm to strike the Eastern strip of the continent in two decades was swept out to sea tonight, leaving death and property damage estimated variously at from $1,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Wreckage of battered boats, piers and cottages littered the Atlantic seaboard from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras as the raging northeaster, which set in late Saturday and stormed away until today, veered with the wind.

TOKIO, Nov. 18 (P).—Japanese dispatches tonight said an independent state of North China would be created this week under the protection of the Japanese army. This new state, the reports asserted, would sever all economic and financial relations with the Chinese National Government at Nanking and seek to promote cordial relations among North China, Japan and Manchukuo.

TECHNICALITIES DEFEAT ACTION

Application to Court for Ruling on Status of Recount Judge Rejected

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (P).—Two technicalities today ended, temporarily at least, quo warrant proceedings questioning the status of County Court Judge J. N. Ellis in connection with the recount he recently conducted in the Vancouver-Burrard election.

In the recount Mayor G. G. McGee, Liberal, was elected with a majority of six votes over Arnold Webster, C.C.F., who had been declared elected previously by the returning officer.

STATUS QUESTIONED
 Alexander Wood, longshoreman, questioned the eligibility of Judge Ellis to hold the recount, alleging he was not senior County Court judge, and that the recount should have been held by Judge A. M. Harper.

The material submitted by counsel for Wood was ruled defective on two counts by Chief Justice Aulay Morrison, who dismissed the action. One was the description of the constituency as "Burrard," whereas it is "Vancouver-Burrard," and the second as the omission of Wood to state specifically that he authorized the action.

J. B. Williams, counsel for Wood, stated tonight he had not received any further instructions from his client but that the way was still open for another action.

Canada and U.S. Cut Tariffs on Many Items Under Reciprocal Pact

Reciprocity Treaty Text

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (P).—Following is the official text of the Canada-United States Reciprocal Trade Agreement signed at Washington by Premier King for Canada and Secretary of State Hull for the United States:

His Majesty the King of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, Emperor of India, in respect of the Dominion of Canada, and the President of the United States of America, being desirous of facilitating and extending the commercial relations existing between Canada and the United States of America by granting mutual and reciprocal concessions and advantages for the promotion of trade, have resolved to conclude a trade agreement as a step toward the lowering of the barriers impeding trade between their two countries, and for this purpose have through their respective plenipotentiaries agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I

Canada and the United States of America will grant each other unconditional and unrestricted most-favored-nation treatment in all matters concerning customs duties and subsidiary charges of every kind and in the method of levying duties, and, further, in all matters concerning the rules, formalities and charges imposed in connection with the clearing of goods through the customs, and with respect to all laws or regulations affecting the sale or use of imported goods within the country.

Accordingly, natural or manufactured products having their origin in either of the countries shall in no case be subject, in regard to the matters referred to above, to any duties, taxes or charges other or higher, or to any rules or formalities other or more burdensome, than those to which the like products having their origin in any third country are or may hereafter be subject.

Similarly, natural or manufactured products exported from the territory of Canada or the United States of America and consigned to the territory of the other country shall in no case be subject with respect to exportation and in regard to the above-mentioned matters, to any duties, taxes or charges other or higher, or to any rules or formalities other or more burdensome, than those to which the like products when consigned to the territory of any third country are or may hereafter be subject.

Any advantage, favor, privilege or immunity which has been or may hereafter be granted by Canada or the United States of America in regard to the above-mentioned matters, to a natural or manufactured product originating in any third country or consigned to the territory of any third country shall be accorded immediately and without compensation to the like product originating in or consigned to the territory of the United States of America or Canada, respectively, and irrespective of the nationality of the carrier.

ARTICLE II

Neither Canada nor the United States of America shall establish any prohibition or maintain any restriction on imports from the territory of the other country which is not applied to the importation of any like article originating in any third country. Any abolition of an import prohibition or restriction which may be granted even temporarily by either country in favor of an article of a third country shall be applied immediately and unconditionally to the like article originating in the territory of the other country. These provisions equally apply to exports.

In the event of quantitative restrictions being established by either Canada or the United States of America for the importation of any article it is agreed that in the allocation of the quantity of restricted goods which may be authorized for importation, the other country will be granted a share equivalent to the proportion of the trade which it enjoyed in a previous representative period prior to the establishment of such quantitative restrictions.

In all matters concerning the rules, formalities or charges imposed in connection with any form of quantitative restriction on the importation

RIVER FLOODS TRENT VALLEY

Heavy Rains Causing Severe Damage in South and Central England

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP-Havas).—Women, children and invalids were being evacuated from the Trent Valley tonight as the river, swollen by heavy rains, overflowed its banks and isolated homes amidst miniature lakes.

Rivers in the southern and central part of England became raging torrents, crippling railway traffic, damaging property and imperilling many lives.

Late tonight the Trent was rising at the rate of about two inches an hour, and the Lower Avon River, flowing through Wiltshire and emptying into the Bristol Channel, flooded regions between Chippenham and Bradford-on-Avon. At Trowbridge and Melksham in Wiltshire, many families huddled on the roofs of their homes awaiting rescue.

Landslides, tumbling thousands of tons of earth and stones across railway tracks, held up many trains between London and the West.

Thinks Cat's Kittens May Be Polecats

EDMONTON, Nov. 18 (P).—Mrs. A. Larvik, of Dods, Alta., is not certain whether her cat's four offspring are kittens or skunks—so both.

The cat disappeared. When it reappeared it had a litter of babies having the general appearance of skunks even to the sharp pointed noses, long-pointed tails and white stripes down the back.

Mrs. Larvik plans not to wait too long to learn what they are.

Refuses to Concur in Loan Plan

TOKIO, Nov. 18 (CP-Havas).—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota today said Akira Aiyoshi, Ambassador to China, to communicate to Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British Ambassador, and Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British financial expert, Japan's refusal to accept Britain's suggestion of a joint international loan to China.

Such a loan, he cabled, "would only serve the interests of certain Chinese groups and would aggravate China's financial difficulties."

Basic Industries Of Province Study Effects of Treaty

Provincial Government Withholds Comment Until Full Perusal of Terms of Reciprocal Pact With United States—Gains and Losses Seen

FOUR basic industries of British Columbia, directly and indirectly affected by the reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and the United States, were examining yesterday the probable gains and losses in what is realized as a mutual pact for the benefit of consumers rather than producers. Except for brief comment, the reaction of the British Columbia Government was reserved until a closer study of the terms of the arrangement, scheduled to go into effect in the new year.

Two of the four industries, lumber and fisheries, claimed modified gains from the pact, while two others, agriculture and mining, were examining with some misgivings the position created by Canadian concessions in the domestic market. Agriculture, in particular, was uneasy as to the removal of protection in the Prairie and Coast markets for fruits and early vegetables, as well as fearful of the ultimate effect of the pact on controlled marketing in Canada.

CABINET COMMENT

Busy on the text of an address he is to deliver shortly, Premier Pattullo said he had not yet examined the text of the agreement, and preferred to withhold comment until he has studied its terms.

There isn't any question but that the treaty will be a help to the lumber industry.

United States Is Accorded Intermediate Rate Benefit

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—Canada and United States will inaugurate a new trading policy on January 1 as a result of the signing of a treaty last Friday between the two countries. Details of the extensive reciprocal tariff reductions included in the agreement were made public today. They cover a wide range of productions, and are intended to greatly increase the flow of commerce across the border. Canada is accorded greater facilities for the disposal of her natural products, while United States agriculturists and manufacturers will be given wider markets within the Dominion.

PACT STIRS HOT DEBATE

New Trade Agreement Given Mixed Reception in Canada and U.S.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (P).—Canadians today analyzed the provisions of the Canada-United States reciprocal trade treaty and in many cases, to judge from the flood of telegrams reaching the office of Prime Minister King, found them good.

Premier King was vacationing on the Lower Georgia coast, following his swift activities at Washington which brought the long-sought treaty to a conclusion within the last two weeks. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting Prime Minister and Minister of Justice, was in Quebec, but will return Wednesday.

HAVE MANY REQUESTS

Other ministers who were in Ottawa, including Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, were not yet prepared to discuss the details of the treaty, although flooded from every side with requests for specific information on certain details.

Of particular interest to the general public was the note attached to the treaty promising the passage of legislation early in the new year enabling Canadian visitors to the United States to bring home goods to the value of $100 without paying duty, a privilege long enjoyed by United States tourists traveling in Canada.

Campaign Against Illegal Drinking

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18 (P).—Popularity of "flask-flashing" waned as police continued a campaign during the week-end here against illegal drinking of liquor. A hotel, a dance hall and several supper places were raided and many arrests made. Similar raids on night clubs were made last week.

Passenger Cars

The two other items with the appropriate rates are: (1) Automobiles for conveying passengers only, n.o.p., valued at retail at place of production, when new, with standard equipment complete, at more than $1,200 each, but not more than $2,100 each; chassis for same, general tariff, 30 per cent, intermediate, 22 1-2 per cent.

(2) Automobiles for conveying passengers only, n.o.p., valued at retail at place of production when new, with standard equipment complete at more than $1,200 each; motor trucks with standard equipment (not for use on railways or tramways); not to include machines or other articles mounted thereon or attached thereto for purposes other than for loading or unloading a truck; chassis for motor vehicles specified in this item; general tariff, 20 per cent; intermediate, 17 1-2 per cent.

SMALL CUT ON AUTOMOBILES

Tariff Reductions From Two and Half to Ten Per Cent

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (P).—Canada grants the United States the intermediate tariff on automobiles of all prices under the new trade agreement. This means reductions ranging from 2 1-2 to 10 per cent, depending on the type of automobile imported.

In the Canadian customs tariff three items cover automobiles. The general item: "Automobiles and motor vehicles of all kinds, n.o.p., and chassis for the same," provides for a general tariff of 40 per cent and an intermediate of 30. Canada will now admit United States automobiles at the lower rate.

PASSENGER CARS

The two other items with the appropriate rates are: (1) Automobiles for conveying passengers only, n.o.p., valued at retail at place of production, when new, with standard equipment complete, at more than $1,200 each, but not more than $2,100 each; chassis for same, general tariff, 30 per cent, intermediate, 22 1-2 per cent.

Referendum Ruled Not Legal; Debate Is Held, However

Aldermen Andrew McGavin and Archie Wills Fight Police Board Issue on Grounds That Abolition of Rights Is Retrograde Step

THERE will be no referendum on the question, "Are you in favor of the police commission being appointed by vote of the electors?" Legal obstacles in the way of the plebiscite led the mayor to rule the motion out of order, but not before there had been a prolonged debate at last night's meeting of the council. The motion was sponsored by Aldermen Andrew McGavin and Archie Wills. Before the debate began, a letter from the Victoria Real Estate Board was read in which opposition to the referendum was voiced, while a letter from the Victoria Ratepayers' Association urged that the issue be put to the people.

QUESTIONS LEGALITY
Alderman P. R. Brown opened the discussion by asking Alderman

McGavin if he had considered the legal aspects of the case. Alderman McGavin replied by asking the city solicitor to give his legal views on the matter. H. S. Pringle, the solicitor, then explained that the council had no legal right to submit the referendum since the police commission was not a body with which the council dealt, and, therefore, could not act in the matter.

Alderman McGavin exchanged his views on the matter, having sought legal advice, too. He contended that the matter was legal, but waived the point after further discussion to embark on the real phase of the debate.

ANSWERS CRITICS
In referring to remarks made by James Forman at a recent luncheon at which he was quoted as saying the former police commission was "humbly" and the present commission a body of eminent men, Alderman McGavin said that anyone elected to the police commission in the past was just as eminent as the present members.

Later Alderman McGavin reiterated his stand on the matter in so far as the rights of the people were concerned on the franchise question.

BACKWARD STEP
Alderman Wills opened his remarks by saying he did not propose to deal with personalities. "I think that it was an extremely backward move to take away the powers that took centuries to get. Those powers for which our forefathers fought were swept away by the stroke of a pen, and that pen was used by a member of a government that was thrown out on the street, so decimated in fact that only one member was returned, the man who took those powers from us, Mr. Pooley."

"The citizens have been deprived of their rights as voters. All the police commission meetings are now held in camera. At least with the old commission we knew what went on," Alderman Wills stated, and then instanced one case of recent occurrence in which the council was completely in the dark as to what had happened at the police commission meeting.

CAMERA MEETINGS
The mayor interjected that not all of the meetings had been held in camera, but the alderman retorted that most of them were, and that at least the press, representing the public, should be given admittance. Alderman McGavin concluded the debate by declaring that he was

CHINESE PROVINCES TO FORM NEW STATE

point of making official the declaration of a Kuomintang leader on Saturday that China was ready to fight if necessary to prevent proclamation of independence of five North China provinces.

It also denied that General Sung Che Yuan, commander of the Tientsin and Peiping garrisons, had told Nanking that General Chiang Kai Shek approved proposed formation of the new state.

REPORTED PROMISES
Major-General Kenji Doihara, Japan's military negotiator on the mainland, was reported tonight to have made these three promises to China in return for non-opposition to the new North China State:

1. Japan's army will not invade South China.
2. Japan will not meddle in South China's internal affairs.
3. The new Government will not break off entirely from Nanking if all political units in North China accept Japanese counselors.

NO DISCRIMINATION
SHANGHAI, Nov. 18 (P).—A Japanese Embassy spokesman said today it was unlikely the North China autonomy movement would produce discrimination against foreign powers.

He predicted increased Japanese commercial activity in North China if the movement is carried through, but declared other nations need not fear their privileges and interests will be endangered.

Saying the embassy had received no official information on the autonomy programme, he nevertheless stated he understood the five North China provinces would be separated financially and economically from the Nanking Government.

NOMINAL ALLEGIANCE
The spokesman said he believed under the plan North China would give its nominal allegiance to Nanking and would pay its share of China's foreign obligations.

Japanese troops massing at Shanghai, he said, but are merely concentrating against any possible forceful acts by the Nanking Government in North China. Such moves, he said, would be considered a threat to the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchukuo.

Nanking troops already had moved into Honan Province.

OF DEEP CONCERN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (P).—High Administration officials tonight studied with deep interest Tokyo reports that another slice of China shortly will fall under Japanese control.

None would comment publicly, but indications were the supposedly imminent creation of an autonomous North China under Japanese protection was of almost as much concern in Washington as was the Japanese action in wresting Manchuria from Chinese sovereignty four years ago.

Russia Under Soviet Given New Ambition Says Recent Visitor

Jan Cherniavsky, Internationally-Known Pianist And Native-Born Russian, Reports on Conditions as He Saw Them on Visit Last Year

FOR the great mass of the people in Russia, conditions are better today than before the Soviet came into control, says Jan Cherniavsky, a Russian by birth and upbringing, now an internationally known pianist living in Vancouver.

Mr. Cherniavsky, who is to appear in recital here tomorrow night, has a great deal that is very interesting to tell about Russia as he saw it about this time last year during an extended concert tour. He speaks with the advantage of intimate knowledge of the country in comparing pre-war and present-day conditions.

A native of the country, he did not have to depend on Government or official guides to take him about, and consequently, he says, could not be accused of having seen only selected conditions.

The one thing above all else that is noticeable is that everybody is working and has a look of concentrated purpose. The Russian, in the past a mystical idealist, is today just as terrifically zealous in his pursuit of a practical ideal.

The success of the five-year plan, at first under coercion, gave the people, collectively, the idea of a definite objective, and the system of awarding premiums to those who showed most ability and brains had added to that other individual incentive that is a tremendous driving force in the life of the newly-organized nation.

NIGHT SCHOOLS
"Everything depends on intelligence and brains. So in their spare time everyone studies, goes to night schools, attends classes for this and that," he says.

Everyone works. Everyone must work, women as well as men. The result is that Russia is now a nation in working dress. Practically every man wears a cap, every woman a beret. There is a minimum living wage for all. But the man or woman of special ability can forge his way upward. This is seen in the professions—doctors, musicians, artists, teachers, engineers, men of science. Their incomes are better. Many could and would have servants, but their houses are too small to accommodate more than the mere family. The big houses formerly occupied by the rich have been converted into hospitals, creches for the care of children while the parents are working, and offices, and are no longer available. But while the well-to-do professional class live in narrower quarters, the condition of the working classes has been much improved and an effort is being made to give some measure of proper sanitation and decency in their housing.

"Conditions are better. In the old days the masses slept in cellars; now they sleep on the first floor," Mr. Cherniavsky reports. It is in the improved appearance of the children that the benefits are specially noticeable.

A CONCERTLESS TOUR
Although he went to Russia last year with a definite concert tour arranged, a curious chain of incidents resulted in his not having a single concert appearance in the country.

So he spent the three weeks, instead, visiting his friends, attending the opera, the theatre and exploring the towns. In Kiev, where he was booked for his first concert, the Government had just annexed the concert hall for a children's school. In Odessa it had been found necessary to postpone the concert two days, owing to local circumstance, and because he had an engagement at Moscow he could not wait. Arriving in Moscow he found the director, M. Urga, was ill, and so the recital again had to be canceled. As he had an engagement that called him back to Budapest to play with the Philharmonic Society there.

Russia has two systems of currency—one for the foreigner, the other for the people of the country. The former employs the Government ruble, which, used for trade and commerce, has a stable value of about fifty cents; the latter uses the Soviet ruble, which has a fluctuating value related to the values attached to commodities at the moment. When a foreigner arrives in the country he is given a draft which represents whatever money he wishes to translate into the Russian currency. He is supposed to stay at special "foreign" hotels and shop at special "foreign" or shops

CHANGES NOT TO BE MANY

No Definite Decision Yet Regarding British Cabinet Make-Up

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP-Cable).—Changes in the make-up of the Cabinet following the victory of Prime Minister Baldwin's Government at the general election last week will be reduced to a minimum, usually well-informed circles indicated tonight.

No definite decision has been reached regarding the future of Ramsay MacDonald, former Prime Minister and Lord President of the Council, who was defeated in Seaham. MacDonald and Anthony Eden, Minister for League of Nations Affairs, conferred today with Mr. Baldwin.

MAY FIND SEAT
It is understood, however, Malcolm MacDonald, son of Ramsay MacDonald, will remain as Colonial Secretary if a seat can be found for him. Malcolm was defeated in Bassetlaw.

Informed quarters said there was no intention of having Eden relinquish the position of League Minister. It is believed that Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, who previously had signified his intention of retiring, is likely to accept a peerage and retain the post of First Lord of the Admiralty, in view of the imminence of the Five-Power Naval Conference scheduled for next month.

WANTED IN CABINET
It was suggested that if the elder MacDonald retires he will be succeeded by Lord Halifax, Secretary for War. Mr. Baldwin is said to be anxious to retain Lord Halifax in the Cabinet. This would necessitate a new appointment at the War Office.

Only the Scottish Combined Universities and the remote constituency of Orkney and Shetland remained to complete the party lineup. The former is a three-member constituency and the latter elects one member.

The King returned from Sandringham Lodge in Norfolk today to be in London during the pending Cabinet reorganization.

MR. MANUFACTURER: "Yes. The relationship has been clean-cut and mutually satisfactory for many years. We appreciate your business and you seem to like our way of dealing. Of course, you know we never could have been as lenient on credits if our own credit were not so good at the Bank of Montreal. The Bank permits us to borrow in substantial amounts during our busy seasons, because we are in good financial shape—have an excellent cash position and a reputation for paying bills and loans promptly."

MR. RETAILER: "That good credit idea is at the very foundation of successful merchandising and goes all the way through the business. Our customers are either cash buyers or have good credit. Most of them have chequing or savings accounts at the Bank and are sure of their ability to pay on our terms before they make purchases on their charge accounts."

Some of the Bank's facilities for the mercantile trade: Commercial deposits; savings accounts for customers and employees; safekeeping of securities and documents; discounting prime commercial paper; loans on notes and warehouse receipts; letters of credit; telegraphic transfers of funds; financing exports and imports and domestic shipments; foreign and domestic credit and trade information; purchase and sale of exchange "futures"; special wire facilities reaching the important exchange markets, affording prompt action; nationwide service through more than 500 branches.

LUMBER TARIFFS
Canadian lumber will operate on a 50 per cent reduction from the $4 per thousand feet board measure imposition which in 1932 closed the United States markets to the Dominion. Douglas fir and Western hemlock, however, will be limited to an import quota of 250,000,000 feet. The rate of duty will be 100 per cent higher than it was up to 1932, when British Columbia enjoyed a wide market on the Atlantic coast.

British Columbia shingles will have free entry, but will be limited to one quarter of the volume of production of Washington and Oregon mills for the previous six months.

Reduction is made of one-half cent a pound on Canadian salmon entering United States. Halibut is reduced by one cent per pound.

DUTY ON AUTOMOBILES
United States automobiles will come into Canada under the intermediate tariff, which means a reduction of from 2½ to 10 per cent upon various types of cars.

Fifty per cent reduction is made in the ordinary Canadian tariff for a wide variety of vegetables, including tomatoes, while it is expected that seasonal duties and dumping charges will be eliminated as well. Tree fruits and strawberries lose one-quarter of the protection given to them under the previous customs rates.

Object to Furnishing Wholesale Prices of Gasoline to Counsel

Dominion Tariff Board Hears Long Argument on Subject of Confidential Information—Chairman Sees No Reason for Companies' Refusal

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (P).—Confidential information was the subject of a long argument before the Dominion Tariff Board today. The board was presented with the problem of what information really is confidential and what may be done with information when it is confidential.

The problem rose in the hearing of an application by Saskatchewan co-operative associations for lower duties on gasoline and other crude oil products. The leading oil companies had submitted certain information to the board in confidence.

Counsel for the co-operatives and for a number of Provincial Governments, wanted access to the information. The oil companies objected, and the board chairman, George H. Sedgewick, was of the opinion he could not compel the oil companies to lay the information before counsel, although he could see no reason why they should refuse.

BEFORE REACHING PUMP

The information related to wholesale and other prices of gasoline before it reaches the service station pump. Leslie A. Brooks, controller of the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company, submitted a statement calculated to show his company had kept its pledge to the Government not to increase prices by reason of the increase in tariffs granted in 1930.

J. J. Frawley, K.C., for the Alberta Government, asked Mr. Brooks where McColl-Frontenac bought the gasoline it sold in Alberta. Mr. thought the oil companies should

JOIN IN REQUEST

R. T. Graham, K.C., for the Saskatchewan Co-operative and the Saskatchewan Government, C. H. O'Halloran for the British Columbia Government, Duncan MacTavish for the New Brunswick Government, and G. Fred Pearson, K.C., for the Nova Scotia Government, joined with Mr. Frawley in pressing that this information be produced at least for benefit of counsel who had to make out a case for lower tariffs.

Mr. Sedgewick explained that the Tariff Board Act required the board to keep in confidence any information supplied by a firm, which might be of benefit to a competitor. He felt he could not order such information to be turned over even to counsel for Provincial Governments under a pledge of secrecy but gasoline it sold in Alberta. Mr. thought the oil companies should see the wisdom of volunteering the information.

H. Mockbridge, for the Imperial Oil Company, and E. H. Eberts for the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company, said they did not think the information should be made available to counsel for opposing interests. Without making a final ruling, which will come tomorrow, Mr. Sedgewick urged the oil companies to reconsider their stand.

REPORT NOT AVAILABLE

The chairman ruled that the board could not consider a report made by F. A. MacGregor, registrar under the Combines Investigation Act, on an inquiry into an alleged oil combine in 1934. He said the report was a preliminary one and under the law could not be used. Application for consideration of the report was made by J. C. McRuer, K.C., counsel for the Transport Oil Company.

Mr. McRuer, who supported the application for lower tariffs, then asked the board to call Professor K. W. Taylor, of McMaster University, who conducted an investigation in connection with the report, but the chairman ruled that the board would not call him. He said Mr. McRuer might call him and counsel announced he would do so.

Alleging a combine existed between the leading oil companies, Mr. McRuer said his clients had been forced out of business as a result and how had a lawsuit pending against Cities Service Oil Company and Imperial. Mr. Sedgewick said he saw no purpose in going into the question of a combine. If the board decided the duty should be lowered or removed on grounds of protection the question would be settled.

TO ESTABLISH EXISTENCE

Mr. Frawley suggested that Mr. McRuer should get oil company officials on the stand and establish the existence of a combine. Mr. Graham said Mr. McRuer's story was interesting because if an oil company would use unfair methods in Ontario it would also use them in Saskatchewan.

COUNCIL MAKES ELECTION PLANS

Returning Officer, Deputy, Dates and Referendum Are All Decided Upon

The City Council cleared the decks last night for the annual civic election by passing all the necessary motions to set up the personnel, dates and other requirements. M. F. Hunter, city clerk, was named returning officer, and E. E. Cuddy-Johnson, deputy returning officer.

Thursday, December 5, was set aside as nomination day for the positions of one mayor, five aldermen and four school trustees. Nominations will be received in the Council Chamber between 12 o'clock noon and 2 p.m. Thursday, December 12, was set aside as election day. The poll will be located in the Public Market Building, and the poll will remain open from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m.

One referendum will be voted upon. That is the question "Are you in favor of daylight saving time during the months of July and August?"

EXPECT INCREASE IN TEXTILE SALES

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (P).—Dr. Claudius T. Muhlson, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, declared today the United States-Canadian trade treaty would result in a considerably expanded market for American cotton textiles.

"The industry sees in this new reciprocal pact an opportunity to regain a considerable portion of the Canadian market, although it is realized that, as a result of the Ottawa, or British Empire trade agreement and other factors, recovery of the former volume is probably impossible," he said.

Overwhelming Vote Defeats Referendum On Publicity Grant

Ald. Andrew McGavin Fights Lone Battle to Secure Opinion of Citizens on Tourist Advertising—Lengthy Debate Crushes Down Opposition

ALDERMAN Andrew McGavin fought a lone fight on the Publicity Bureau question last night and lost. The City Council overwhelmingly voted against taking a referendum to determine whether the grant to the bureau should be continued.

The debate was made possible through the seconding of Alderman McGavin's motion by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, who pointed out that he was definitely opposed to a referendum and a staunch supporter of the publicity bureau, but had seconded the motion for purposes of discussion, much in the same manner as Alderman McGavin on many occasions had done the same for other aldermen.

SUBMIT PETITION

A lengthy petition, bearing the names of many of the city's leading business firms and heavy taxpayers and licensees was submitted in which it was urged that "the civic grant be restored next year and that, if the mayor and council decide to stop the payment of this grant or take any action detrimental to its continuance or detrimental to the work of the bureau, we wish, herewith, to state that we shall immediately request a reduction in the business licenses that we are now paying."

Referring to the petition, Alderman McGavin said he could get one signed by five times the signatures that were on the one mentioned above, and the signatures he would secure would be those of small businessmen, "who are the real taxpayers in this city and bear the heaviest burden."

The alderman stated he fully realized the value of advertising and publicity, but contended that the publicity bureau should be located in the City Hall and should be under the supervision of the city comptroller, who could watch the expenses. He contended that if the issue were allowed to go to the people, "the bureau would be knocked in the head."

FUTILE ADVERTISING

He expressed the view that the spending of money on advertising in California and Oregon was futile, because the people in those states were not in a position to travel. There were too many on relief. He further stated that on a trip to Mexico he had only seen one sign advertising Victoria, but he was given to understand that most of them were on the Redwood Highway. He intended going by that route next year to see the signs.

Alderman McGavin declared the $20,000 grant to the bureau could be better spent in Victoria and that it was the duty of transportation companies to do the advertising, and that the city should concentrate on securing a reduction in ferry rates, because in that direction lay Victoria's real bid for tourist trade.

Alderman P. R. Brown said that a plebiscite on the publicity bureau had been given to the people for years past at every election. The last three or four mayors had run on a publicity bureau platform, and the alderman himself had always supported the bureau, yet none of them had been defeated at the polls. The alderman then proceeded to give figures showing how the trades licenses in the city had been increased to take care of the publicity bureau grant, and that the issue did not affect the property holders but solely the merchants.

CHANGES VIEWS

Alderman John Worthington told how he once was a strong opponent of the publicity bureau, but had since discovered its worth and its great commercial asset to the city in the tourists it attracted here annually.

Ald. Dewar pointed out that more than 50 per cent of the bureau's money was spent in Victoria, which was contrary to the impression conveyed by Ald. McGavin. The bureau had been responsible for the establishment of ferry services to Victoria from the Mainland, and in this respect alone justified its operation.

Ald. James Adam reviewed the history of publicity work as it ap-

MANY MEMBERS ARE OBTAINED

Chamber of Commerce Campaign Successful—Officials Are Pleased

Membership of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce was swelled by sixty new members as a result of their recent drive, and there is every indication that when all prospects have been canvassed, the number will rise to over seventy-five. Fred M. McGregor, campaign chairman, advised directors of the chamber yesterday afternoon.

The directors expressed their pleasure over results, and Harold Husband, vice-president, declared it was a remarkable showing and augured well for future activities of the organization.

Mr. McGregor had high praise for the workers, and stated final reports would be made at a dinner on Friday. Prizes will at that time be awarded to the most successful workers.

Workers reported to Mr. McGregor that they received sympathetic receptions and the large number of new members indicated times were truly better.

Call of a mayors' conference in Ottawa during the forthcoming session is being urged by Mayor G. McGeer, of Vancouver, who at last night's meeting of the City Council asked for Victoria's support in the matter.

A perusal of the accompanying documents showed that the demand for a mayors' conference seemed general, and that one was likely to be held.

The purpose of the parley is to discuss directly with the Dominion Government matters affecting municipal finances. Among the things to be considered would be: relief from unemployment costs; assistance in financing education; health and law and order services; assistance in the financing of superannuation; completion of the P.G.E. railroad into the Peace River district; removal of discriminatory freight rates in the West, and many other questions affecting the business life of the West.

Mayor McGeer's letter was referred to the legislative committee, with power to act. This means that should a conference be called, this committee will determine upon representation at the convocation.

WILL BRITISH COLUMBIA BENEFIT?

Practical results, measured over the next three years, alone will determine the value or otherwise of the new reciprocal treaty with the United States, but at this time there does not appear any cause for rejoicing on the part of British Columbia for the dubious benefits observable in the document made public yesterday.

Reduction by 50 per cent from the United States tariff on Douglas fir and Western hemlock will be welcomed by timber exporters in this province, but the duty is still 100 per cent higher than it was prior to 1932, when a rate of $3 per thousand feet board measure was added to the then existing tariff of $1. Up until the imposition of the $3 tax British Columbia enjoyed a large market for lumber on the Atlantic seaboard. Whether lumber producers on this side of the line will be able to overcome the protection of $2 per thousand feet and regain the portion of that market, limited to 250,000,000 feet, will depend upon a number of factors, such as production costs, freight rates and wage scales.

The free entry of raw logs to be processed into lumber in United States mills will be welcomed by lumber interests across the border. It will permit of the capital assets of this province being exported with a minimum of labor for the employment of workers in the mills at Washington. Mr. Ian Mackenzie, a member of the Government of Mr. Mackenzie King, is cognizant of the damaging effect of this provision, for he was a member of the special committee of the British Columbia Legislature which, in 1925, studied the forestry resources of British Columbia, and reported that twenty-five years would see the end of the exportable Douglas fir of the Coast.

Shingles from British Columbia are permitted free entry into United States upon a peculiar quota basis. This provides that Canadian cedar shingles shall not exceed one-quarter of the production of the United States cedar shingle mills, calculated on a six months' basis. Any labor disturbances or other cause that would curtail production in Washington and Oregon would be reflected in the volume of shipments permitted from this province.

Reduction in the United States import rate on halibut by one cent a pound may be expected to increase to some extent the sale of British Columbia fish in that market, but, as halibut fishing is under the control of an international commission that is seeking to conserve the productivity of the banks, the benefits to be expected are not large. The 25 per cent cut in the tariff on fresh salmon entering the United States will either be of no value whatever or will result in the increased sale of West Coast catches to be canned in the plants on Puget Sound.

Such are the principal advantages, as far as this province is concerned, included in the treaty. On the other hand, British Columbia farmers and fruit growers will suffer from the reduction by 50 per cent in the tariff scale and practical abolition of dumping duties on a wide range of vegetables, and similarly, a reduction of 25 per cent in the Customs Act scale for strawberry and tree-fruit growers, with the concomitant withdrawal of the protection under the Canadian system of valuation for duties.

Manufacturers of mining, lumbering and fish-canning machinery in Vancouver will feel the effects of the lessening of protection provided for them by the old tariffs. The British Columbia retail trade will be badly hit by the provision that will permit tourists from Canada to bring back merchandise to the value of $100 free of duties. Such an exemption has long been part of the United States customs regulations and has given rise to numerous complaints among retail merchants along the border. If, with their greater population, and consequently much wider markets, the impact of Canadian sales to tourists was such as to affect business in the United States, the injury to business in Canada will be proportionately greater.

Prairie farmers, who grow grain for the competitive markets of the world, and are not interested in the development of other forms of Canadian industry, will find satisfaction in the cutting in half of customs duties on agricultural machinery. Workmen in manufacturing plants in Ontario, however, may find the broadening of competition will reduce their numbers.

Generally, consideration of the treaty does not give rise for much optimism as to it providing for any appreciable increase in employment in Canada; nor does it appear that the possible benefits will compensate for the probable disadvantages that will accrue to Canadian trade and industry.

BIRTHDAY MEMORIES

Seventy-seven years ago today, at Fort Langley, a stockaded trading post of the Hudson's Bay Company on the Fraser River, British Columbia was proclaimed as a Crown Colony. The anniversary of that event gives cause for reflection, for from the moment that His Excellency James Douglas faced Mr. Justice Matthew Baillie Begbie to take the oath of office, until the present, the whole of the country west of the Rocky Mountains has been under the direction of the Crown. Vancouver Island had been a Crown colony for eight years, but the great Mainland was unorganized and responded only to the government of the fur trade; that rule of commerce upon the system of barter was just only because of the high principles governing the ancient company's dealings with the natives. The earlier months of 1858 saw a great influx of gold-seekers to the banks of the Fraser River. They were an unorganized and undisciplined horde. The firm hand of government was essential to the times, and so the Imperial Parliament instituted the Crown Colony of British Columbia. Coincidentally the exclusive licence of trade of the Hudson's Bay Company ceased, and the authority of the Crown, as represented by Governor James Douglas, became supreme, and British law became the law of the land. The age-old traditions of British administration of justice, became those of the new colony.

The Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., will celebrate the anniversary of that great event of seventy-seven years ago, as that patriotic organization has for many years. At the instance of Mrs. R. B. McMicking, herself a pioneer of Colonial days, the Lady Douglas Chapter long ago set aside November 19 as a day to be remembered. It was a noble inspiration on the part of Mrs. McMicking and it was a wise act of good citizenship on the part of the chapter to dedicate the day to a study of the history of British Columbia. Public spirit, pride of race and local loyalty must be constructed against the background of traditions, and the Lady Douglas Chapter has done much excellent work in interesting the public in the inspirational stories of provincial history.

At the instance of the chapter, the Native Sons and Native Daughters organizations also recognized the importance of November 19, and in many places in British Columbia today will take their lead from the inspiration of Mrs. McMicking and will celebrate the anniversary of the Crown Colony of British Columbia.

IMPOSITION OF SANCTIONS

Economic sanctions are now in effect against Italy. Through their operation the first real test is being made of the League of Nations' authority. Italy regards these sanctions, and logically, as an act of war against her, and it is symptomatic of this attitude that, without violating the Covenant of the League, any nation can engage in hostile action against Italy. The shutting off of commercial relations between countries is tantamount to an act of war. The saving grace of the situation is the unlikelihood that war on a large scale will develop. Even the fervor of patriotism in Italy has not yet risen to the height of challenging the world.

Italy's plan now will be to complete the conquest of Ethiopia with such speed that the economic sanctions will not have time to make their drastic effect felt. It is not in days but in months that the boycott of Italy will inflict suffering on that country. Italy is so aroused internally, so much bitterness has been built up by the action of the League of Nations, such a spirit of self-sacrifice is abroad in the land, that there is no indication that the country will be forced to end its adventure in Ethiopia in any sudden fashion. The situation is this: One of the countries of the world has been summoned to the bar of public opinion because it engaged in hostile action that is considered unwarranted. It has been adjudged and found guilty, and sentence, in the form of economic and financial sanctions, has been imposed. It is a new test of international statesmanship. It is a test as to whether international sanctions are of value in promoting the cause of peace. The League of Nations will continue to exist, or fall by the wayside, according to the outcome.

REGIMENTED

Possibly the trouble lies in the fact that the youth of today is living in a time when rugged individualism, taboo, and community welfare, the goddess of popular adulation. Yes, that's it. The kids are no worse, and we trust no better, than in our young days. They are the victims of a binding restriction, the steady barbed wire of community welfare. . . . One may reasonably pause to ask, if the human race is biologically ready for this sudden change from individualism to community interest, and whether it might not be better to have a whale of a time on Halloween night, and guide the young mind, even by the strong-hand method of the dusted pants and the cuffed ears, along the paths of individualism and responsibility. —London Free Press.

TRUE JUSTICE

It is not the effect of one particular act of injustice that should impress us with so much regret, it is the habit of too great suddenness or harshness in judging. How difficult it is for us to estimate the many ways in which we may be mistaken. When shall we learn to keep the knowledge always present with us that often kindness is our best brightness, and our truest justice is mercy? —Jean Ingelow.

Music, of all the liberal arts, has the greatest influence over the passions, and is that to which the legislator ought to give the greatest encouragement. —Napoleon.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

The purpose firm is equal to the deed: Who does the best his circumstance allows. Does well, acts nobly; angels could do no more. —Young.

The hot political controversy in Vancouver-Burrard has been settled at last, provided it shall not be reopened on a legal technicality, and our friend Gerry has won, as we hoped and said he would win. The affair was almost as protracted as an old-time religious, protracted meeting. Why did we hope Gerry would win? When we take sides on any subject there are always reasons which can be stated and substantiated. Our reasons for hoping for the best for Gerry were not political; they were strictly professional.

We believe it was Artemus Ward if it was not Artemus, it was some other American humorist—who described somebody or something as "a most amusing cuss." If Gerry has no humor in himself, he is productive of humor in others. We never could understand why some of our contemporary commentators wrote so harshly, even bitterly, about the versatile public man who is now Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard as well as Mayor of Vancouver. If those commentators had had the interests of their newspapers at heart they never would have done that, for Gerry as a source of news is only second to those other physical phenomena, the Dionne quintuplets.

The lives of the people of British Columbia were so dull and humdrum they were hardly worth living until Gerry appeared like a luminous political comet—or should we say burst like a blazing political meteor—on the political and religious firmament. If the decision of the judge who made the recount of the ballots had been adverse to the cause of Gerry, what a void there would have been in the atmosphere with a burning and a shining light extinguished, and disappeared in a great cloud of gas! The papers would have hardly any news worth printing and there would have been a visible decline in their circulations.

There is an old saying that no man can serve two masters. Well, as to that, Gerry is going to show them. He is going to show them that he can serve Vancouver as the most remarkable Mayor the city ever had and serve Vancouver-Burrard as the most extraordinary representative it ever had. He says he can polish off the business of the city in two hours, mount into the air on wings and be in his place in Parliament at Ottawa within the compass of a day. And we expect that in the intervals between flights he will demonstrate to Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King that he displayed deplorable judgment when he chose Hon. Ian Mackenzie as the representative of this province in the new Government.

We note with sorrow that the politicians in their attitude to Gerry are very much like the journalists. The politicians in British Columbia do not want him and would be delighted if they saw the last of him. The politicians in the East will not welcome him; but they will be forced to tolerate him. We fear they regard Gerry as a source of potential trouble, and their fears may be justified. Gerry is so active mentally and physically that he must be always "up to something." Immediately he was proclaimed member for Vancouver-Burrard, in that capacity as well as in the capacity of executive chief of the third largest city in Canada he suggested that all the mayors get together and trek down to Ottawa for the purpose of making demands upon the new Government. The Mayor of Vancouver again declares that the city is practically bankrupt, that most of the municipalities in Canada cannot meet their liabilities and that the case for relief is unassailable.

There is only one source of possible relief. That is the Federal Government. We expect that if Mr. King were at liberty to express his opinion after he read these things, he would exclaim: "Drat that Gerry McGee! If he starts another trek to Ottawa, the folly may spread, and after the provincial premiers have finished their pilgrimage and gone home not altogether satisfied, we may have delegations camping on the grounds of the Parliament Buildings and agitators knocking at the doors of the executive offices and demanding audiences with the Prime Minister! More dreadful to contemplate! In a moment of weakness, I confessed in public meeting that at heart I was a radical. What if some idle but bold agitator were to call me, the Prime Minister, a liar!"

Gerry is a politician orphan, sad to relate, and is not wanted anywhere. But there is a certain responsibility in the position of an orphan. Oliver Twist was an orphan, and smashed all tradition by demanding more, and his demand was ultimately instrumental in the downfall of Bumblehead. What will be the reaction of Federal Bumblehead to demands for more by multitudes of persons and interests?

Picking Wild Flowers

For the first time we heard the real reason why the picking of wild flowers should be minimized. We have always heard with some bewilderment the plea to pick wild flowers, prohibiting the plucking of wild flowers. Having happy recollections of hours spent in the country picking wild flowers in years gone by, we were not entirely in accord with denying children of today the same privilege. It was explained to us that wild lily bulbs do not multiply. The bulb withers after one season, and a new one grows beneath. Eventually each succeeding bulb gets so deep down in the earth that the plant cannot reach the surface. The only means of propagating it is by seed. Thus it would seem that if there were alternate seasons for picking and not picking, propagation could be assured, and children would not be wholly denied the pleasure of happy days in the country.—P.C.R.

Some Blooming Prices

As an ambitious amateur gardener, my enthusiasm was somewhat stifled the other day during the course of an interview with the park superintendent, W. H. Warren. We were talking about fancy petunias and begonias. After becoming intensely interested, and anxious to embark on an extensive programme of planting, Mr. Warren informed me he had worked out the price of some of the seeds. After finding that some of the higher grade begonias seeds run at the rate of $10.00 a pound, and fancy petunias at $3.50 a pound, I decided to patronize the corner grocery store or florist shop in future.—P.C.R.

Material Sharing

"Sharing," both in the economic and spiritual sense, has been much discussed during the last few years. A lady of our acquaintance, whose political and ethical views greatly pre-date any of the post-war groups committed to this belief in sharing, has come to an amiable arrangement with a tenant who owes her several months' rent, whereby she "works it out" by becoming their boarder and occupying a room in her own house free of charge. Being a philosopher, and recognizing the futility of bearing any grudge against them for their failure to pay their rent, she has settled down contentedly, and reports that the conditions seem mutually satisfactory. —J.E.M.B.

When Movies Don't Move

Making movies just in Victoria is no sinecure—just ask the producer. The Marine Department building on Wharf Street was converted into a "hoosegow," by the simple expedient of hanging up a large sign bearing the letters "Police Station." Then some of the stenographers to spoil the scene by draping their lovely forms over the windows. Sound equipment was made ready, but extra-justice hammering in nearby buildings ruined several yards of film. Again recording apparatus was set up. A woman flouted by loudly tittering over nothing in particular. More film was spoiled. A third time everybody was ready for action. Of course, an automobile had to be taken past, and for some unknown reason the driver played many pranks upon his horn. More exasperation. Finally some scenes were taken. But then, the scene, and the cast had to call it a day. In Hollywood and Los Angeles, obliging police close off a street for movie folk. But they ask $500 for five minutes. Even a fire engine tearing out of a station costs producers $50 for the shot.—G.B.

Prunes and Prosperity

Louis Lebourdais, the historian of Cariboo, is an observing man. Louis had learned in a lifetime in that romantic part of B.C. that it is the small things that indicate the larger values. Recently he came to Victoria and visited other cities. On his return home he declared that prosperity was returning. He was certain of it. He had discovered an infallible proof. It happened that Louis had noticed a prune. When he was outside in 1929 he was served five prunes whenever he called for them in cafes and on dining cars. Two years later, at the depth of the depression, he obtained but three prunes to eat, but this year, each time he called for his favorite dish he was given four units to the plate. Therefore Louis is certain progress is being made, and better times are in sight.—B.A.M.

LIGHTKEEPERS

Sir—I wish to endorse heartily everything Mrs. Wallace said in her letter of the 8th inst. These gifts, boxes, or what have you, that are supposed to be sent to lighthousekeepers at Christmas are a myth which mislead the public and nothing more. Lighthousekeepers receiving a good salary don't want or need them; and those on a small salary, according to Mrs. Wallace, don't get them anyway. Moreover, if Mrs. Wallace ever did receive one of the boxes she would never want another as they are usually filled with trash which the keeper either puts in the fire or drops into the ocean—whichever is more convenient.

But there is another point to which public attention should be drawn. Mrs. Wallace states she has six children of school age. As I understand education is compulsory in this province I would like to know what is being done about theirs as the island where they live makes it impossible to send them to school and the keeper's salary does not allow him either to send them to boarding school or to provide a teacher at home. In rural districts of the province a daily average of five pupils constitute a school and such a government grant and teacher is provided. One lighthouse at Race Rocks had a family large enough to obtain the government teacher at the station; so surely it could be done again for this family at Addenbrooke, whose daily attendance would be better than that of many rural schools.

(Mrs. H. I. MacKENZIE, Suite 6, Leland Apts., Victoria, B.C., November 18, 1935.)

LIGHTKEEPERS AND CHRISTMAS

Sir—In reply to a letter from Mrs. Wallace, Wallace, of Addenbrooke Island Lighthouse and appearing in your columns of Saturday last, may I state that it does not come in the Victoria district, but that of Prince Rupert.

"THOU SHALT NOT KILL"

Sir—The Euthanasia (an-easy-death) Society of Great Britain has taken upon itself a tremendous and uncalculated responsibility. The movement is all the more regrettable in that it emanates chiefly from the medical profession. It is a movement whereby many incurable patients, who, in spite of all, hang on to dear life, will lose their faith in the doctor who, being under oath "to save life," as Dr. Malcolm MacEachern, of Chicago, so well expresses it, will be deceived by them as the man whose ultimate motive may be that of quietly "dispatching" them!

The Euthanasia sign, among so many others, confirms the truth of God's word pointing out that we are living in the very last days of that dispensation which precedes the return of our Lord Jesus Christ, days in which, as prophesied, men shall more and more ignore God and take His laws into their own hands. God alone can give life and it is His prerogative alone to take it, as it is our privilege, under whatever circumstances, to praise Him for His wisdom! No one should see death before his God-appointed time and those "passing through the valley" before their time, go there as the victims of homicides or as suicides, which is in flagrant disobedience of God's solemn command: "Thou shalt not kill"; and those responsible of us who shall have to give an account of it to God!

Suffering, as death, is the result of sin, and although eternal life is the gift of God through Jesus Christ our Lord, and is available to whosoever will, the consequences of sin must be borne by mankind until death itself "be cast into the lake of fire." God shall not hold guilty those that interfere with His sovereign rights!

The most terrible result of willful death is that it robs a man, in the case of an unsaved person, of finding salvation perhaps at the last hour of normal and God-allotted span of life.

Let us hope that this Euthanasia or painless killing movement, fortunately opposed by a host of eminent men, will be defeated in the House of Lords when this bill for "legalized killing" is submitted to them.

The greatest source of all real wisdom was and is always shall be found in that so-called antiquated book, the Bible. A back to the Bible movement would have a far more salutary effect in alleviating the sufferings of humanity than all the humanitarian movements could ever accomplish without God.

L. J. ECKMAN, 40 Wellington Avenue, Victoria B.C., November 18, 1935.

Seventy-Seven Years Ago Crown Colony of B.C. Was Proclaimed

Ceremony in Officers' Quarters at Fort Langley, November 19, 1858, Brought British Law Into Force—Put End to Fears of American Seizure

By E. A. McKELVIE

IN the Big House—or officers' quarters—at Fort Langley, seventy-seven years ago today, British Columbia came into being as a Crown Colony; the rule of the fur trade in the territory under license of exclusive trade ended, and British law replaced it. It was an important day in the history of British Columbia.

When Governor James Douglas, of Vancouver's Island took office as Governor of the new colony as well, it was of particular moment to him. It was not the added responsibility of dual governorship that interested him, although that naturally pleased his vanity, but it was that the Union Jack was firmly planted over the great domain West of the Rocky Mountain, and all danger of seeing the territory pass to the United States was ended.

SAW OREGON LOST
James Douglas had witnessed the territory of Oregon pass into the possession of the republic as a result of peaceful penetration of American settlers, who when they had attained considerable numbers, set up a provisional government and invited United States to assume control. He was even then fighting to prevent a similar occurrence on the San Juan group, and he had headed off a plot in 1852 to seize control of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

It was during the gold mining excitement on the Islands that a group of Americans went to the Queen Charlotte group with the purpose of settling there, forming a government and annexing themselves to United States. Although he did not have, at the time, any authority over the group, Douglas took it upon himself to outfit a vessel with forty armed men. This he sent to the scene of the Northern gold rush and compelled every man to take out a mining licence in the name of Queen Victoria, thus acknowledging the sovereignty of the British Crown. He repeated this stratagem on Lopez Island in 1853.

TOOK AUTHORITY
When the gold rush started to the Fraser River in 1858, miners came in thousands from California, Oregon and Washington. Governor Douglas feared that they, if left alone, would seize control of the country and repeat the political coup of Oregon. He moved quickly, and without authority, for his commission extended only to Vancouver's Island and the Queen Charlotte group, the latter having been extended to him after the gold rush of 1851. He placed a gunboat at the mouth of the Fraser River and collected a mining licence from every man who went up the river. He also exacted a tax of $2 for the Hudson's Bay Company. This latter impost has caused historians to charge him with endeavoring to benefit the company of which he was an official, but his position and his reason for doing so was set out at the time, and was entirely creditable to him.

PROTECTING FLAG

In reporting to the Colonial Office, Governor Douglas stated that he had imposed the mining licence, although he had no authority to do so. He thought that it was necessary to exact recognition of British sovereignty from every person going into the country. If, he pointed out, his action was held to be illegal, then the only authority that could exist was that of the Hudson's Bay Company, which had a licence from the Imperial authorities, so he had put a small head tax upon the invaders, in order that through the company they would acknowledge the authority of Great Britain over the country.

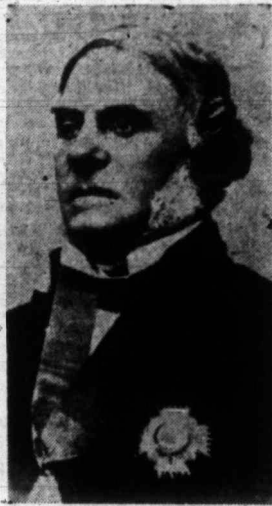

It was, therefore, with pleasure indeed that he took part in the ceremony that definitely established government, directly responsible to Imperial authorities, and saw the threat of international complications entirely disappear.

In this day the fears of Governor Douglas may cause amusement, but judged in the light of his times, and the circumstances surrounding him, they take on a totally different aspect. His purpose was to hold this country for the British Crown, and with the aid of the Hudson's Bay Company, he had succeeded in doing it.

COVETED OWNERSHIP

It is interesting to note that not only did the population of Oregon, Washington and California view as probable the ultimate acquisition of this country by United States, but in official circles the same thought prevailed. When the gold rush started, a secret agent of the United States, named Nugent, came to Victoria and seriously weighed and reported upon whether or not it was then desirable to take over the country. There existed in United States a large section of opinion that considered that United States was the rightful owner of all the territory up to latitude fifty-four degrees, forty minutes, and that by the treaty of 1846, establishing a boundary line, they had been robbed. At a later date efforts were made to induce British Columbia to accept annexation, but they failed. So it was that seventy-seven years ago today the ceremony at Fort Langley had a significance even greater than the organization of a Crown Colony. It was a triumph for James Douglas, fur trader, diplomat, patriot and Governor. It is fitting that these things should be known, and that the lead of the Lady Douglas Chapter of the L.O.E. should be followed in annually commemorating this day.

Created Governor at Notable Ceremony

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS, K.C.B., who was installed as first Governor of the Crown Colony of British Columbia on November 19, 1858.

CONSTERNATION IS EXPRESSED

City Council to Investigate Why Housing Scheme Not in Operation Here

Consternation was expressed by members of the City Council last night that money for house construction under the 1935 Dominion Housing Act was available in other cities, but not in Victoria.

This condition was pointed out to the council by the Victoria and Island Retail Lumber and Shingle Association, which asked the council to act in the matter with a view to securing a speedy operation of the housing scheme in this city.

The letter pointed out the many advantages that would accrue to the city from the housing scheme, and it was stated that the association had endeavored to ascertain through what channels the loans could be made. The letter further pointed out that the act sets forth that the Government shall advance 20 per cent of the cost of the building, the loaning companies 60 per cent and the party building the other 20 per cent. The rate of interest would be 5 per cent and the payments monthly, quarterly or semi-annually, to include interest, taxes and insurance, extended over a period as high as twenty years.

After expressing some surprise that the facilities for these loans did not exist in Victoria, and after perusing the list of loan companies through which the money can now be advanced, the City Council referred the matter to the business and trades development committee for investigation and report.

DIRECTORS HEAR Y.M.C.A. REPORTS

Ladies' Auxiliary Plans to Partition Lobby—Attendance Statement Satisfactory

Blueprints have been made for the proposed partitioning of the lobby at the Y.M.C.A., and the ladies' auxiliary plans to proceed with the project in the near future. J. Bennett reported at a Y.M.C.A. directors' meeting last evening.

W. F. Pinfold announced that eighty persons were meeting each week at the Y.M.C.A. for instruction in public speaking.

Dr. T. W. A. Gray reported keen interest in swimming, boxing, wrestling and first aid classes. A swimming class for young Chinese had been organized, he stated. The physical department showed attendance of 3,453 at 218 sessions held during October.

BOYS' DIVISION
In the boys' division, seventy-seven sessions in the gymnasium and swimming pool were attended by 1,227 boys. Fourteen meetings of the seven junior clubs showed an attendance of 117. J. V. Johnson reported.

Giving an account of the recent membership drive, E. G. Rowebottom stated that 293 memberships, valued at $2,834.50, had been received. He made several valuable suggestions for next year's campaign.

Frank Paulding, general secretary, informed the directors that finances of the Y.M.C.A. were satisfactory as compared with last year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Colic—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. Laxatives are only make-shifts. A new bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes three good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

JOHN HYZKA CONVICTED

Found Guilty in Police Court on Four Counts of Possession of Stolen Goods

Charged with having in his possession, or in some instances of having had possession of jewelry, knowing the same to have been stolen, John Hyzka was convicted on four counts in the city police court yesterday.

The cases were prosecuted jointly by the city and the Oak Bay police. The homes that had been invaded and jewelry taken from them were all in Oak Bay. The accused was apprehended by the Oak Bay police in the city, after he had made a dash for freedom when being taken into the Oak Bay police station for investigation.

The accused was not sentenced by the police magistrates yesterday on the request of the city prosecutor, who asked that an adjournment be taken until this morning as there were other investigations to be made into the career of the accused.

HAD GOODS ON HIM

In most of the instances, the jewelry was found on the accused when he was searched at the police station, following his apprehension by the Oak Bay police. In one instance, a gold collar button and part of a gold bracelet, which had been taken from the home of Dr. Richard Felton, at the corner of Cadboro Bay Road and Thompson Avenue in Oak Bay, had been sold to K. A. McLeod, a dealer in old gold, who had paid $4.65 for them. Accused sold them under the name of L. McLeod.

The accused pleaded guilty to possession of the jewelry found on him and sold to Mr. McLeod, but denied that he knew they were stolen. In some instances the articles were described as being given to him to sell by a person whose name he knew was "Jack," which was not regarded as distinctive enough to hope that he might be found.

The remainder of the articles were given, he said, by another man, but in this instance he did not even know any part of the name.

HAD BAD RECORD

The police record of the accused was given to the magistrate as starting with suspended sentence in Nanaimo on January 25, 1935, on a charge of vagrancy under the name of Leo McLeod. On September 6 he was convicted of breaking and entering in Nelson and given one year in jail under the name of John Hyzka, alias F. Murphy. On September 20, 1935, he was tried in Penitentiary for a previous offence and sentenced to twenty-three months, the time to run concurrently with the Nelson sentence. But on September 24 he broke from the Penitentiary lock-up.

The local thefts included a bracelet belonging to the daughter of Clarence Johns, 756 Falkland Road, and two rings belonging to Mrs. Johns, taken from the home which had been ransacked on November 8. These were identified among the articles found on the accused. There were other articles not recovered from the place.

There were also included the articles from the home of Dr. Felton, which had been sold to K. A. McLeod, and also shirt buttons and gold cuff links found on the accused when arrested.

TOLD OF ARREST

Constable Robert M. Smith, of the Oak Bay police, told of having met the accused about 8:10 p.m. on Oak Bay Avenue. He was with another man. Both of them were strangers to witness, who stopped them and asked them where they came from. The accused said he had been taking a girl home and he belonged to Vancouver. Witness sent them to the police station for questioning, but as they were entering, they bolted. Next day he identified the accused in a Chinese cafe. He told the Chinese proprietor to telephone the police, but the Chinaman did not do so the officer had to telephone, and the accused got away. Accused ran down to Store Street and disappeared. The next day, in company with Chief John Syme, he met the accused on Fort Street and placed him under arrest. He was taken to the city police station.

WILL COMMENCE PROJECTS TODAY
Delay Caused by Lack of Wage Policy Is Removed—Report to Be Made on Scale

All public works projects authorized by the executive of the public works committee of the council, which were held up due to a lack of policy of wages, will now be proceeded with immediately. Some of them will get under way way today, and others tomorrow.

The city council last night decided to refer the wage scale to the executive committee for report and recommendation, and that in the meantime the minimum wage be paid.

There was some dispute as to what was the minimum wage for outside construction work. Some thought it was 40 cents an hour, while others believed it was 45 cents.

Alderman Archie Willis expressed the view that the minimum wage too often became the maximum and that he would have no objection to 50 cents an hour being paid. The projects authorized, and confirmed by the council last night were as follows: Medina Street, surface drain; Fairfield Road, road improvements; Cedar Hill Road, surface drain; Coronation Avenue, surface drain; Bank Street, surface drain; and Front Street, concrete sidewalk.

WILDCAT WELL PRODUCES OIL

Test in Southern Alberta Reported to Have Struck Production

Crude oil was struck last night in another Alberta wildcat well when the Imperial Oil Company's well blew into production, according to word received in a telegram to S. W. Walker, of the Victoria Securities Limited, last night. The well is located southwest of Lethbridge and just north of the international boundary.

This is the first crude oil showing struck in the vicinity, and success was reached after drilling to a depth of 5,930 feet over a period of several months.

The well is situated on the Nordan acreage on Del Bonita structure. Representatives from the principal oil companies of the world have been at the ground for the past two weeks, and indications are that the vicinity surrounding is rich in crude oil.

OWN ADJACENT LEASES

British Columbia interests own 6,000 acres adjacent to the well, while the Imperial Oil Company also has property in the vicinity. In addition to the larger interests, Mr. Walker said that many Victoria people have land near the rich strike.

The telegram to Mr. Walker reads as follows: "Five million feet of wet gas, plenty of oil and a splendid well."

The Terminal well is privately owned by five Los Angeles oil men headed by Myrick Zammer, oil geologist, formerly associated with Stanford University.

Four-year-old Maurice was so quiet his mother became suspicious of his whereabouts. Finally she found him sitting on the floor, perfectly still, doing nothing.

"Maurice, what are you doing?" she asked. Maurice flung her an impatient glance, and exclaimed: "Can't you see? I'm only living!"

OLD CONDITION IRRETRIEVABLE

Prof. Robertson Gives University Extension Lecture on "Rural Depopulation"

Any dream of restoring rural population conditions of fifty or sixty years ago is "absolutely and irretrievably hopeless," said Prof. L. Robertson, head of the department of classics, University of British Columbia, in concluding his University Extension lecture at the Girls Central School here last evening. J. L. Watson was in the chair.

Speaking of "Rural Depopulation as I Have Seen It," Prof. Robertson drew an attractive picture based on rural life as he knew it as a boy in Prince Edward Island more than half a century ago. His own relation to the classics was directly associated with the subject when he quoted Plato to the effect that "when the time of financial depression comes and the situation of the world seems desperate and it seems the only solution is reduction of interest or redistribution of land, the cry immediately rises that the only thing you must not touch is vested interests." That might have been written in 1935, he said.

RURAL DWINDLED

Rural population had dwindled all the through the Maritime provinces, Ontario and other older parts of Canada. He proceeded to show, in picturesque recollections of farm life when he was a boy, how the varied activities of a country community before the days of factory-made implements and gas-operated machinery had justified and even necessitated a big rural population. Ploughing, the sowing of grain, the rolling, threshing, milling and other processes connected with grain all had to be done by hand and the machinery made by hand, as were the household furniture, the candles, the textiles from which the clothes were made, the soap with which they were washed, the shoes with which they were worn.

The history of Greece, Italy, and other ancient civilizations would show that any attempt to make society retrace its steps was hopeless. The proper shaping of the future was what attention should be concentrated upon.

Challenges Made; but None Taken

Election challenges were flung around freely at last night's meeting of the City Council.

Alderman P. R. Brown, during the debate on the Publicity Bureau referendum question, challenged Alderman Andrew McGavin to retire from the council and run as an opponent to the Publicity Bureau. Alderman Brown said he would take up the cause of the bureau. The one attaining the most votes would determine the Publicity Bureau issue.

Alderman McGavin was not slow in coming back. He flung back the challenge that Alderman Brown, if elected this year, retire from the council next year and run against Alderman McGavin for mayor, with the Publicity Bureau as an issue. Neither challenge was accepted.

WILL PROBE LEGAL ONUS
 Oak Bay's Responsibility Regarding Bowker Creek to Be Ascertained

Oak Bay's legal obligations in the matter of flood conditions caused by Bowker Creek will be investigated by the city's legal department. At last night's meeting of the council, the city solicitor was asked to determine what Oak Bay's legal responsibility was in the matter.

This action was taken after the Oak Bay council informed the City Council of its approval of the new grade plans, but stipulated provisions, which safeguarded the municipality against any financial responsibilities.

The grade already has been approved by Saanich and the city without any "riders." Oak Bay's attitude on the matter is delaying action planned to relieve flood conditions in the Greater Victoria area, and which affects large areas in Saanich and Victoria, and part of Oak Bay.

INJURED CHILD RIDES IN PLANE

Boy Falls From Radio Tower on Tatoosh Island—Taken to Seattle Hospital

SEATTLE, Nov. 18 (AP).—Five-year-old Edward Conyngham, brought from Tatoosh in a United States Coast Guard airplane yesterday, improved today under treatment for injuries received in a fall from a radio tower. He is the son of E. F. Conyngham, chief naval radio operator on Tatoosh Island.

Edward fell from a radio tower on the island where his father is radio operator. The radio station flashed a call to the coast guard.

The cutter Redwing took Edward and his mother from the island. The plane picked them up at Neah Bay and flew to Sandpoint Naval Station, where an ambulance awaited.

Before the ambulance started, Mrs. Conyngham told Lieut. C. C. Bowman, in charge, and Pilot F. E. Schweininger, that "Edward always wanted a ride in your plane. But we didn't think it would be this way."

Hospital attendants said the child's condition was serious.

MANY BABIES ARE ENTERED

More Than 100 to Compete for Prizes in Daily Colonist Show

Perusing the entries in The Daily Colonist Baby Show, it is apparent that every district around Victoria will be well represented, with a strong contingent from Up-Island points to swell the list.

Well over one hundred have been registered by their proud parents, including a lusty pair of twins, and there will be keen competition for the many handsome prizes awarded when they are brought before the judges on December 4. The event is scheduled to take place in the Bay Street Armories, in conjunction with the Winter Fair and Bazaar.

With this number attained, there is no statement in the entries arriving at the Tourist Trade Development Association offices, where the simple forms are to be obtained.

THREE CLASSES

The babies are divided into three classes: Class "A," those up to six months; Class "B," those over six months and up to twelve months; and Class "C," those over twelve and up to eighteen months. The ages are estimated as on the day of the baby show. In each of these classes there will be attractive prizes.

The Daily Colonist will present the first prize winner in each class with a big cup, while second and third in each class will receive awards from different business houses in the city.

FIRMS GIVE PRIZES

While the list is not yet completed, it is announced that the following firms will be among those awarding prizes: Fowler's Children's Shop; the Owl Drug Company, Ltd.; James Maynard Shoe Store; McGill & Co., Ltd.; Robert O. photographer; Vancouver Drug Company, Ltd.; and MacFarlane Drug Company.

The Hudson's Bay Company will present a cup to the champion baby of the show, regardless of class. Other special awards will be announced later.

METHOD OF CONTROL

Reports were current today of various plans being considered by the Government for controlling this privilege, but officials were not ready to discuss them. It was suggested the Government would provide that ten days' visit in the United States would be necessary to obtain the exemption.

A semi-official argument was advanced against this suggestion, however, on the ground it would penalize persons who could afford only a brief holiday across the border. It was certain restrictions would be placed in the act to prevent its exploitation, particularly by those who live in border communities.

Numerous inquiries were directed to officials by persons eager to ascertain how prospective automobile purchasers would be affected and how much the tariff change would affect the "turn-in" price on used cars. No definite settlement on this point has been reached.

LUMBERMEN PLEASED

Lumbermen were pleased at the prospect of increased shipment of Canadian lumber to the United States because of lowered duties. Livestock shippers also saw increased exports resulting from the new duties. Dairy farmers were pleased with lower rates on some of their products.

Manufacturers of automobiles, radios, farm implements, electric refrigerators and other articles believed they would suffer from United States competition. Textile industrialists expressed similar views. Printing firms were fearful many United States magazines now printed here would abandon Canadian publication when the United States magazines were admitted duty free.

ARE DISAPPOINTED

Fish exporters in the Maritime Provinces were very disappointed to learn there was no reduction on Canadian haddock and cod exported to the United States, pointing out these were the chief exports from Maritime fisheries.

On the other hand, at Edmonton, satisfaction was expressed at a reduction of one-quarter of a cent per pound on Canadian whitefish exports. Alberta fishermen will profit by $10,000 annually, declared R. T. Rodd, director of fisheries for Alberta.

The Canadian textile industry will have to make closer prices because of the tariff reductions on color textile goods, said R. G. Tolle, general manager of Canadian Cottons Company, at Montreal.

A. T. Thom, president and general manager of the Waterloo Manufacturing Company at Waterloo, Ont., said reductions on farm implements should not seriously affect the Canadian industry, since rising costs in the United States would offset the advantage gained by the tariff.

GIVE WARM APPROVAL

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (AP).—The directors of the British Columbia Lumber and Shingle Manufacturers' Association, in a statement tonight, expressed warm approval "that a broader basis of trade with our great neighbor to the south is in prospect, and that certain concessions on British Columbia lumber have been incorporated as an important item in the new agreement."

Regarding the quota placed upon lumber, the statement said:

"The quota of 250,000,000 feet is only about 10 per cent of the normal production in British Columbia and is less than 3 per cent of the total normal consumption of softwoods in the United States. We do not consider that this comparatively small export from Canada should adversely affect the interests of American softwood producers."

VIEW ON QUOTA

The new departure of a quota, however, "was viewed by many with some concern."

"During the peak year of 1929," said the statement, "British Columbia exported to the United States over 600,000,000 feet. The quota will therefore be only about 40 per cent of that amount."

"The 50 per cent reduction under the new trade agreement still leaves a tariff of $2, which is considered to be a very substantial duty. If we ship 250,000,000 feet of fir and hemlock (the full quota) under this new agreement, it will mean payment to the United States Government by the lumber industry of British Columbia of $500,000 for the privilege."

"In general the lumber industry of British Columbia is very pleased to see a broadening of trade in the offing, and a lowering of artificial restrictions, and hopes that this is the first step in a general policy of interchange of commodities and an era of greater trade and prosperity for both Canada and the United States."

EXTOLLS NEW AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace extolled the new Canadian Tariff Treaty tonight as foreshadowing both increased exports and greater domestic consumption of American farm products.

His formal statement capped a day of grim disagreement over merits of the pact. There was a flood of statements, so voluminous, and in some cases so bitterly worded, as to evoke predictions the treaty might assume proportion of a 1936 campaign issue.

The cabinet officer, who yesterday sat beside Mr. Roosevelt as the President explained the trade agreement to the press, predicted that it benefits for "the whole of agriculture" and increased industrial payrolls as well.

But against this argument emphatic protests were hurled by the lumber, livestock, dairy and other interests on whose products United States tariffs had been slashed.

REACTION IS VARIED

Reaction of American industry varied. Magazine publishers liked the reduction in the Canadian duty on their output. Steel makers thought the pact meant little to them and automobile manufacturers congratulated the President. The North Pacific grain trade thought the pact satisfactory.

The trade agreement was described as "economic nonsense" in a statement by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

The lumber industry, it alleged, was "sacrificed for promised benefits to other industries or other interests regarded as more deserving."

COURT ACTION CONSIDERED

Suggestions of court action to test constitutionality of the trade agreement law, made by some lumber representatives today, were not mentioned in the formal statement of the association. Earlier in the day one representative, who declined to be named, had said the "law should be tested."

Former Senator C. G. Dill, Washington Democrat, now representing some West Coast lumber interests, denounced the agreement as making of the lumber and fisheries "sacrificial lambs on the altar of an experiment called reciprocity." Dill said he had considered a test case of the law, but did not care to comment now.

IN WESTERN STATES

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP).—The United States—Canadian Trade Treaty, lowering tariffs on some farm products, evoked a wide range of comment in the agricultural States today.

Doubt, disapproval and dissatisfaction were expressed by some spokesmen for the livestock, dairy and potato industries. Representatives of the grain-trade and packers said the pact would probably have little immediate effect on their businesses. Illinois manufacturers whose products stand to benefit were represented as pleased.

WOULD RESCIND PACT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 18 (AP).—The National Grange, by a unanimous vote of delegates, called upon the United States Government tonight to rescind its new reciprocal trade treaty with Canada.

Adopting a report of the legislative committee, which climaxed a day of individual broadsides delivered against the treaty by many delegates, the farm body said:

"If these treaties are not rescinded, we demand the repeal of the Reciprocal Tariff Act just as soon as Congress convenes."

The report predicted that the treaty will "prove injurious rather than beneficial."

Children's Ball to Be At Empress

Extensive plans for the annual children's ball to be held at the Empress Hotel on December 27 were made at a meeting of the Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., last evening at the home of the regent, Mrs. T. A. Johnstone, McClure Street. The general conveners of the ball will be Mrs. Johnstone and Mrs. A. D. Whittier; Mrs. Aubrey Kent will have charge of the ballroom; Mrs. E. O. Weston, the tickets; Mrs. J. L. Ford, the dining-room, and Mrs. C. W. Plumb, the supper tickets.

An extra donation was voted to secondary education; liberal donations were voted for Christmas hampers, and a donation to work in India. Mrs. Johnstone read an interesting report of the provincial semi-annual meeting at Powell River, which she attended as the chapter's delegate.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served, Mrs. A. D. Whittier presiding over the table, which was arranged with a bowl of deep red chrysanthemums.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, as They Waved From the Balcony of Buckingham Palace to the Cheering Crowd Below, Following Their Marriage on November 6.

Mrs. James Adam, wife of Alderman Adam, graciously opened the annual bazaar of Queen Alexandra Review, No. 1, W.B.A., held yesterday afternoon and evening. Mrs. Mabel Burnett, Review president, introduced Mrs. Adam, and presented her with a small gift on behalf of the review members.

The affair, which proved both a social and financial success, was under the convener'ship of Mrs. Jean Bowden. During the afternoon, several vocal solos were given by Mrs. N. Bertucci, Mrs. L. Thompson, who was convener of the fancywork stall, which was arranged in a color scheme of green and yellow. An artistically arranged table was that of the home cooking, directed by Mrs. M. Robson. Mauve and yellow, with chrysanthemums predominating, and yellow tapers, formed the pretty setting. Green, rose and white were used by Mrs. A. Taylor in decorating the candy stall. Mrs. A. Brooks was in charge of the Pioneers' Club apron stall.

The prize for the best decorated table was awarded to the Qu-Alex Girls' Club, under the direction of the president, Miss Annie Reid. The club colors of blue and gold were used most effectively in decorating the table.

The house-house table, with Mrs. A. Davis in charge, was kept busy during the sale. Afternoon tea was served by Mesdames M. Trowsdale and A. Malcolm, while Mrs. Mossop read tea cups.

Music in Churches Discussed

The monthly meeting of the Conductors and Organists' Association was held at the home of the president, W. H. Muncy, Saturday evening. There was a good attendance, including some new members. Rev. G. C. MacKenzie and Rev. E. P. Church represented the Victoria Ministerial Association.

Stanley F. Bulley, organist of Christ Church Cathedral, gave an interesting paper on "Church Music." He stated the purpose and use of music in the church. The important reason why music should be used in church worship was that it created reverence for things eternal and put the soul of man in the right attitude for the service which followed. Music for this purpose should be beautiful and dignified, but to appreciate the best in church music, one must study and find the inner beauty first. Mr. Bulley covered in a comprehensive manner various occasions when music can bring the listener nearer to the Kingdom of God.

LIVELY DISCUSSION
Some lively discussion followed the reading of the paper. F. T. C. Wickett and W. C. Fyfe touched upon hymn-singing and the importance of the right tempo for congregational singing. Regarding hymn tunes, G. H. Peaker pleaded for more variety in the selection of tunes and suggested that among the many lovely tunes written, only a limited number were used on Sundays. Others taking part in the discussion were Mrs. Colin Cummins, Oliver Stout, F. Crowhurst, Cyril Warren, Rev. E. P. Church and Rev. G. C. MacKenzie.

There will be no meeting in December, but the next meeting will be held on the third Saturday in January, the place to be announced through the press. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Muncy.

Winter Fair Offers Many Attractions

This afternoon and evening at the Sons of England Hall, Broad Street, opposite The Colonist, a Winter fair and concert will be held by the friends attending Dr. Clem Davies' services.

Gifts suitable for Christmas gifts, home cooking and candy will be on sale. Light refreshments will be served, and there will be fortune telling. First-class programmes of entertainment will be offered both afternoon and evening. During the afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, two short programmes of variety dances will be given by the tiny tot pupils of Miss Mona Jewell, accompanied at the piano by Evelyn Holt.

At 8 o'clock tonight a programme of variety features will be presented. As the accommodation of the hall is limited, radio will be used to make the entertainment available to a larger audience, the courtesy being extended to the public by CPCT.

Miss Elsie Friend, the Empire Service accompanist, will sing, accompanied by Howard Parfitt. Little Ilace Roskelley will sing and recite, and other artists to take part will be Reg Gerrard, Harvey Godtel and Reg Saunders, who will play piano accompaniment. Robertson and Company, a troupe of gifted entertainers, and Tom Lavery and his band of ukulele and harmonica players will round out the evening's entertainment.

At 9:45 o'clock Dr. Clem Davies will broadcast the late news, and those who wish may go to the hall and see how this is done.

Judge Thinks Women Want Their Own Way

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 (AP).—Women and the law are not naturally compatible, Judge Theresa Meikle has concluded from her experience of five years as the only woman on this city's municipal bench.

The jurist summarizes her observations something like this:

Women still suffer from the old failing of making decisions by emotion instead of reason.

Women want their own way and have little liking for the law unless it helps them get it.

"Men seem to understand the law better," said Judge Meikle, "or at least its power and purpose. Women want what they conceive to be their rights, regardless of law."

"When a man is caught in a crime, is convicted and sentenced, he usually shrugs his shoulders and takes it. But a woman begins to cry, to tell of children and sick relatives who need her and to try in every possible way to wiggle out."

"Waiter, this steak is very small." "Yes, sir, but you will be surprised how long it will take you to eat it." —Woche im Bild, Oltien.

League Sanctions Formally Applied

through paralysis of export trade. Fifty-two nations declared the campaign effective by ceasing to supply to Italy its needed war materials. Fifty nations have banned all purchases from Italy.

Fifty-six nations already have banned all Italian arms shipments. Extension of credit to Italy has been refused by fifty-two nations.

INTENSIFYING MOVE
Italy's response to this collective action was to refuse to purchase in countries joining in the boycott. This move actually will intensify the whole effect of the sanctions programme and to that extent it is in line with the League's wishes.

One of Italy's principal intangible exports is the income from its merchant marine, which is expected to drop severely as a result of the League boycott and the voluntary Italian counter-boycott.

With the fifty-two nations participating in the sanctions, four others—Austria, Hungary, Albania and Paraguay—agreed partly to associate themselves.

BRITISH WILL REPLY
LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP-Havas).—A British note of reply to Italy's protest to members of the League of Nations applying sanctions against her will be presented on Friday, informed quarters said tonight.

The last part of the Italian note remarked that each country was free to act independently. It is understood the British reply will remind Italy that action hostile to the collective principle led up to the present moves against Italy.

AT A STANDSTILL
PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP).—Foreign Office officials admitted today Premier Laval's efforts to end the Italo-Ethiopian war are "absolutely at a standstill."

Sanctions and counter-sanctions closed the Franco-Italian frontier. Huge stocks of merchandise, blocked by the economic siege, piled up on the border.

The French Chamber of Commerce said sanctions would have a "disastrous" effect and would increase unemployment in this country. Authorities said railroads would lose 50,000,000 francs ($3,000,000) a year.

MUSSOLINI EXPOUNDS
ROME, Nov. 18 (AP).—Premier Mussolini expounded war and politics for two hours tonight to his Fascist Grand Council, but what he said was kept from Italy and the world.

The council, meeting at Palazzo Venezia for the second time in forty-eight hours, and at the close of a day in which League of Nations powers had thrown up a wall of economic sanctions around the Fascist state, issued a terse communique which said merely that it had listened to Il Duce's orders and had decided to meet again on December 18.

To Italians this meant the nation's supreme executive body was satisfied with Mussolini's conduct of the "eye for an eye" policy he had adopted to combat sanctions, and is now content to await developments.

The communique revealed that among those present were Marshal Italo Balbo, premier Italian airman and Governor-General of Libya, and Senator Guglielmo Marconi, electrical wizard.

EXPECTING CONTACT
MAKALE, Ethiopia, Nov. 18 (AP).—Two Italian columns began an attempt today to use a "scissors" action on the wily Ras Seyoum, commander of Ethiopia's northern army, and to disperse his followers.

Ras Seyoum was reported to be sounding mobilization drums to gather his men, estimated now at between 20,000 and 30,000.

Two columns with mounted artillery from Makale and Hausien started marching to the east into the Tembien region. Officers said they were expecting word of some contact with the elusive Ras Seyoum shortly.

BOMBED CIVILIANS
ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 18 (AP).—The Ethiopian Government said tonight Italian airplanes had bombed the civilian population of Enderta, near Makale, leaving a number of persons dead and wounded.

An official announcement said the refusal of the natives to provide cattle and cereals to the Italians

Little Stories for Bedtime
Peter Discovers Snowflake
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Rough Brother North Wind hurried up one big cloud after another, and late in the afternoon while, feathery flakes came drifting down out of the sky, Peter Rabbit sat tight in the dear old Brier Patch. All night he remained squatting just inside the entrance to an old hole Johnny Chuck's grandfather had dug a long time ago in the middle of the dear old Brier Patch. Some time before morning the snow stopped falling and then Rough Brother North Wind worked as hard to blow away the clouds as he had to bring them.

When jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky he looked down on a world of white. It seemed as if every little snowflake twinkled back at every Jolly Little Sunbeam. It was all very lovely, and Peter Rabbit rejoiced as he scampered forth in quest of his breakfast.

He started first for the weedy field where the day before he had found Dot, the Tree Sparrow, and Slaty the Junco. They were there before him, not seeming to mind the snow in the least and having the very best of good times as they picked seeds from the tops of the weeds which showed above the snow.

At once Peter discovered that they were not alone. Quite as busy seeking seeds as were Dot and Slaty was a bird just a little bigger. The top of his head and back were a rusty brown and on his back were streaks of black. Back of each eye and shoulder was a little patch of this same rusty brown. The inner tail feathers were black and the outer half of the long wing feathers were black. Otherwise he was dressed all in white. It was Snowflake the Snow Bunting. Peter knew him instantly. He knew that there is no other small bird who is so largely white. Peter had his usual question ready.

"Snowflake was so busy getting his breakfast that he did not reply at once. Peter noticed that instead of hopping he walked or ran. Presently he paused long enough to reply to Peter's question. "If the snow has come to stay all Winter, perhaps I'll stay," said he. "I can't understand how folks can be contented where there is no snow and ice. You don't catch me going way down South. Why, when the nesting season comes around I follow Jack Frost clear up to where he spends the Summer. I nest way up on the shore of the Polar Sea, but of course you don't know where that is, Peter Rabbit."

Peter confessed that he didn't. Next story: Horns That Are Really Not Horns.

"Are you going to spend the Winter here, Snowflake?" he cried.

UNDERCHARGING IS ALLEGATION

Tax Collections Department in Esquimalt Criticized by Councillor Hodgson

Councillor T. Harry Hodgson last night charged that the municipal tax collections department had undercharged various companies on trade licences, and that the net loss to the municipality was about $200 per year.

His charges will be investigated by a committee under Reeve Alex Lockley and comprising Councillors Thomas Hadfield and Fred O. Eaton.

In reply to Councillor Hodgson, Reeve Lockley referred to the case of the B.C. Electric Railway among those cited by the councillor. Reeve Lockley explained that this company had paid a licence fee of $20. The municipal by-law provided that the company was liable to a $40 fee.

PAID HEAVY TAXES

However, throughout the years, this company, said Reeve Lockley, had paid thousands of dollars in taxes on George Park property, and was even now paying $800 per year on the property, which, he claimed, was not of much value to the B.C. Electric.

"It's no use cutting off our nose to spite our face," he said.

"The B.C. Electric is no asset to this municipality and can well afford to pay," retorted Councillor Hodgson.

"They have shown us in this district a great loyalty," Reeve Lockley declared.

The matter was then sent to the committee for fuller investigation. A plea of the C.C.F. Unemployed Council to have relief allowances doubled in December, was sent to the finance committee for suggestion and an estimate on the cost. Last year, while the municipality was paying less than at present, two extra days were given.

PLEA FOR BLIND

A letter from John Dean urging that fences and sidewalks on Esquimalt Road, between Fraser and Dunsmuir Streets, be put in better shape, was received and filed. A request from the Canadian National Institute of the Blind that blind persons be given the right-of-way at intersections under municipal by-law was tabled, pending a report on present procedure from the police chief.

An offer of $60 for a lot on Wolston Street, from John Wright, was accepted. Councillors Eaton and Albert Hood were named to sit with the reeve as a court of revision on the Municipal Voters' List on December 10, at 7:30 p.m.

Final reading was given to a by-law authorizing the borrowing of $700 for relief in August, September and October. The tender of $25 of William King, 1346 Antrim Street, for the demolition of condemned shacks, was accepted.

During a rehearsal of Beethoven's "Fidelio," Toscanini was not satisfied with the way the philharmonic orchestra rendered a certain passage of the overture. He asked twice for a repetition.

The third time he exclaimed: "Signori, signori, I beg you to be a little more careful! Illustratissimo Maestro Beethoven—well, he was deaf. But I can hear."

of any article, Canada and the United States of America agree to extend to each other every favor granted to a third country.

ARTICLE III

Articles the growth, produce or manufacture of the United States of America, enumerated and described in Schedule 1 annexed to this agreement, shall, on their importation into Canada, be exempt from ordinary customs duties in excess of those set forth in the said schedule. The said articles shall also be exempt from all other duties, taxes, fees, charges, or exactions, imposed on or in connection with importation, in excess of those imposed on the day of the signature of this agreement or required to be imposed thereafter under laws of Canada in force on the day of the signature of this agreement.

Schedule 1 and the notes included therein shall have full force and effect as integral parts of this agreement.

ARTICLE IV

Articles the growth, produce or manufacture of Canada, enumerated and described in Schedule 2 annexed to this agreement, shall, on their importation into the United States of America, be exempt from ordinary customs duties in excess of those set forth and provided for in the said schedule. The said articles shall also be exempt from all other duties, taxes, fees, charges, or exactions imposed on or in connection with importation, in excess of those imposed on the day of the signature of this agreement or required to be imposed thereafter under laws of the United States of America in force on the day of the signature of this agreement.

Schedule 2 and the notes included therein shall have full force and effect as integral parts of this agreement.

ARTICLE V

The provisions of Articles III and IV of this agreement shall not prevent the Government of either country from imposing on the importation of any product a charge equivalent to an internal tax imposed on a like domestic product or on a commodity from which the imported product has been manufactured or produced in whole or in part.

ARTICLE VI

Articles the growth, produce or manufacture of Canada or the United States of America, shall, after importation into the other country, be exempt from all internal taxes, fees, charges or exactions other or higher than those payable on like articles of national origin or any other foreign origin.

The provisions of this article in regard to granting of national treatment shall not affect the laws now in force in Canada where leaf tobacco, spirits, beer, malt and malt syrup imported from abroad are subject to special taxes, nor shall they affect the applicability to goods produced or manufactured in the United States of America of special excise taxes imposed under existing provisions of the special War Revenue Act. In these respects, however, most-favored-nation treatment shall apply.

ARTICLE VII

No prohibitions, import or customs quotas, import licences, or any other form of quantitative regulation, whether or not operated in connection with any agency of centralized control, shall be imposed by Canada on the importation or sale of any article the growth, produce or manufacture of the United States of America enumerated and described in Schedule 1, nor by the United States of America on the importation or sale of any article the growth, produce or manufacture of Canada enumerated and described in Schedule 2, except as specifically provided for in the said schedules.

The foregoing provisions shall not apply to quantitative restrictions in whatever form imposed by either country on the importation or sale of any article the growth, produce or manufacture of the other country in conjunction with governmental measures operating to regulate or control the production, market supply, or prices of like domestic articles, or tending to increase the labor costs of production of such articles.

Whenever the Government of either country proposes to establish or change any restriction authorized by this paragraph, it shall give notice thereof in writing to the other Government and shall afford such other Government an opportunity within thirty days after receipt of such notice to consult with it in respect of the proposed action; and if an agreement with respect thereto is not reached within thirty days following receipt of the aforesaid notice, the Government which proposes to take such action shall be free to do so at any time thereafter, and the other Government shall be free within fifteen days after such action is taken to terminate this agreement in its entirety on thirty days' written notice.

ARTICLE VIII

In the event that Canada or the United States of America establishes or maintains a monopoly for the importation, production or sale of a particular commodity or grants exclusive privileges, formally or in effect, to one or more agencies to import, produce or sell a particular commodity, the Government of the country establishing or maintaining such monopoly, or granting such monopoly privileges, agrees that in respect of the foreign purchases of such monopoly or agency the commerce of the other country shall receive fair and equitable treatment.

To this end it is agreed that in making its foreign purchases of any product such monopoly or agency will be influenced solely by those considerations, such as price, quality, marketability, and terms of sale, which would ordinarily be taken into account by a private commercial enterprise interested solely in purchasing such product on the most favorable terms.

ARTICLE IX

The tariff advantages and other benefits provided for in this agreement are granted by Canada and the United States of America to each other subject to the condition that if the Government of either country shall establish or maintain, directly or indirectly, any form of control of foreign exchange, it shall administer such control so as to insure that the nationals and commerce of the other country will be granted a fair and equitable share in the allotment of exchange.

With respect to the exchange made available for commercial transactions, it is agreed that the Government of each country shall be guided in the administration of any form of control of foreign exchange by the principle that, as nearly as may be determined, the share of the total available exchange which is allotted to the other country shall not be less than the share employed in a previous representative period prior to the establishment of any exchange control for the settlement of commercial obligations to the nationals of such other country.

The Government of each country shall give sympathetic consideration to any representations which the other Government may make in respect of the application of the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE X

In the event that a wide variation occurs in the rate of exchange between the currencies of Canada and the United States of America, the Government of either country, if it considers the variation so substantial as to prejudice the industries or commerce of the country, shall be free to propose negotiations for the modification of this agreement; and if an agreement with respect thereto is not reached within thirty days following receipt of such proposal, the Government making such proposal shall be free to terminate this agreement in its entirety on thirty days' written notice.

ARTICLE XI

In the event that the Government of either country adopts any measure which, even though it does not conflict with the terms of this agreement, is considered by the Government of the other country to have the effect of nullifying or impairing any object of the agreement, the Government which has adopted any such measure shall consider such representations and proposals as the other Government may make with a view to effecting a mutually satisfactory adjustment of the matter.

The Government of each country will accord sympathetic consideration to, and when requested will afford adequate opportunity for consultation regarding, such representations as the other Government may make with respect to the operation of customs regulations, quantitative restrictions or the administration thereof, the observance of customs formalities, and the application of sanitary laws and regulations for the protection of human, animal, or plant life.

In the event that the Government of either country makes representations to the Government of the other country in respect of the application of any sanitary law or regulation for the protection of human, animal, or plant life, and if there is disagreement with respect thereto, a committee of technical experts on which each Government shall be represented shall, on the request of either Government, be established to consider the matter and to submit recommendations to the two Governments.

ARTICLE XII

Nothing in this agreement shall be construed to prevent the adoption of measures prohibiting or restricting the exportation or importation of gold or silver, or to prevent the adoption of such measures as either Government may see fit with respect to the control of the export or sale for export of arms, ammunition, or implements of war, and, in exceptional circumstances, all other military supplies.

Subject to the requirement that there shall be no arbitrary discrimination by either country against the other country in favor of any third country where similar conditions prevail, the provisions of this agreement shall not extend to prohibitions or restrictions (1) imposed on moral or humanitarian grounds; (2) designed to protect human, animal or plant life; (3) relating to prison-made goods; (4) relating to the enforcement of police or revenue laws; (5) directed against misbranding, adulteration, and other fraudulent practices, such as are provided for in the pure food and drug laws of either country; and (6) directed against unfair practices in import trade.

ARTICLE XIII

Except as otherwise provided in the second paragraph of this article, the provisions of this agreement relating to the treatment to be accorded by Canada and the United States of America, respectively, to the commerce of the other country, shall not apply to the Philippine Islands, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, the Island of Guam or to the Panama Canal Zone.

The provisions of this agreement regarding most-favored-nation treatment shall apply to articles the growth, produce or manufacture of any territory under the sovereignty or authority of Canada or the United States of America, imported from or exported to any territory under the sovereignty or authority of the other country. It is understood, however, that the provisions of this paragraph do not apply to the Panama Canal Zone.

HOWARD SCOTT EXPLAINS IDEA

Leader of Technocracy Addresses Audience in the Chamber of Commerce

Howard Scott, one of the leaders of Technocracy Incorporated, New York City, addressed an audience of 500 persons at the Chamber of Commerce here, last night. Mr. Scott's meeting was under the auspices of the Victoria Branch of the C.C.P. and Charles Hunt was the chairman.

It is about two years since Mr. Scott advanced his theories to a Victoria audience, and his address last night was along similar lines—the transference of the price system to one by which technocracy would create all goods and services, and everyone would be in receipt of an income after fulfilling a national citizenship earned by twenty years of work.

DARK FUTURE

The main idea in technocracy, at the present time, according to Mr. Scott, was to displace as many people as possible in order that technocracy might accomplish its purpose. Mr. Scott announced that the year 1937 would see practically the whole nation out of work. "We technocrats," said Mr. Scott, "are helping to displace men as rapidly as we can, and it won't be long now before you will all be on relief. Relief is not temporary. It is permanent, and there is going to be a lot more of it, and we engineers are going to see that you get it."

The question of wealth was fully discussed by the speaker, who declared that the continent was in the hands of approximately 37,000 families. "There are only that number of persons on the North American Continent who are worth kidnapping."

REPLACE SYSTEM

The idea of technocracy, said Mr. Scott, was to create a system that would replace the present price system. The country or continent would be divided into sections, numbered, and currency would be the medium of exchange only for the services required. By the use of a fantastic system of photo-electric cells, the technocrats would be able to control distribution of goods in all sections, and headquarters would be able to tell exactly when and where a pair of shoes was bought. Women, he declared, would have their own currency, and could only buy those goods that were designed for women. The male would only be allowed to purchase what he required.

ANSWERS QUERIES

Mr. Scott's replies to questioners were as humorous as they were direct. He declared that the approach of technocracy was a little more inhuman than that of political parties. "We try our best to insult you so that you will, perhaps, have a lucid moment and go away with a little of what we are trying to tell you," he said.

The speaker declared there were only two classes of people in the world—"chillers and suckers"; that governments were rackets, and when people voted, thinking they were doing their duty to their country, they were simply putting a cross on a piece of paper and nothing else.

Fortifications Rising Above Old Ramparts Antedating Caesar

Paris Excavators Find Reminders of Invasions, Sieges and Revolutions on Seine Island, the Site of Notre Dame.

PARIS.—Far below the ground on the island in the Seine from which rise the graceful towers of Notre Dame, laborers hastily building protections against the next war are finding reminders of other wars, of long forgotten invasions, harrowing sieges and bloody revolutions nearly two thousand years into the past. In the courtyard of the sombre Republican Guard barracks on the Ile de la Cite laborers are excavating for the construction of a huge shelter against air bombardment. A few days ago archaeologists were called in when the workmen came upon ruins showing that this is not the first time Paris has been called on to protect itself.

Walls and columns of an ancient chapel and a church were discovered. Searches revealed ruins varying in date from the fourth century to the French Revolution, and turned up human remains.

GALLIC WALL SOUGHT
Archaeologists are confident, further, that they will find another section of the original wall of the ancient Gallic city of Lutetia and thus place together ruins recalling the first attacks by barbarians from the north and east, the days when St. Genevieve saved the small mud-hut city from the Huns, and the epoch when Clovis made it his capital. They already have found structures dating to the fourth century, to the siege by the Normans, in 885, to the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and finally, remains of flats built during the French Revolution, when the state took over property of the church.

M. Alne Grimaud, inspector of archaeological excavations for the Commission of Old Paris, who is carefully directing the work, explained the finds to the United Press.

He revealed that the workmen uncovered the floor of a chapel built in the fourth century, when Paris still was a few mud houses huddled on an island in the Seine in a swampy, uninviting but strategic valley. This chapel was called St. John the Baptist, and its early history is lost in the obscurity of the ancient Gallic town, which was first mentioned in Caesar's Commentaries as Lutetia.

SERVED AS LEVEES
The walls around the island, two vestiges of which previously have been found, served two purposes in those days. One was to protect the city against the flood waters of the Seine; the other was to protect it against the Normans, who were making constant incursions from the North. Grimaud, who has been studying the subsoil of Paris for many years, knows where this wall ought to be, and its line, according to his calculations passes right through the excavation now being made for the bombardment shelter.

Just above the chapel of St. John, and built around it, Grimaud made his most important find—the remains of a church that was known as St. Germain le Vieux (the old). This church is closely tied up with the tragic series of invasions by the Normans which preceded their siege in 885.

FEARED DEPREDACTIONS
In the years immediately before the siege the monks of the monastery of St. Germain-des-Prés felt that their great establishment on the southern slopes leading to the Seine—now in the very heart of Paris—was no longer safe. Especially they feared the Norsemen would gain possession of their most precious relic—the body of St. Germain, founder of their monastery.

So the monks brought the body into town and buried it in the chapel of St. John. They were just in

Dean of Columbia Addresses Gyro Club on "Christianity and War"

Blasts of war are blowing in the people's ears and the world is dark with fear, but there is not a single first class scholar who upholds war, Very Rev. Cecil S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, told members of the Gyro Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday in speaking upon "Christianity and War." He was introduced by Major H. Cuthbert Holmes.

Because the mission of the church was to establish the Kingdom of God everywhere, its members must of necessity annoy war mongers, reactionaries, merchants of death and would-be profiteers, the Dean declared.

"If there is another war, I hope we shall not turn upon the conscientious objectors. We are sometimes faced with the choice of two wrongs in this queer world, and it then becomes our duty to take the lesser wrong. Force sometimes has to be used as a regrettable necessity, but it is never a complete solution to our problems," the Dean asserted.

Dealing with the church's attitude toward war, he said the Church of England refused to countenance it unless governments had resorted to arbitration or conciliation in efforts to preserve peace. He believed that war had its roots in competitive business, and that there must be a reign of social justice before there could be an era of peace.

Referring to the many complaints against the League of Nations, the Dean pointed out that there could not be a perfect institution in an imperfect world. He thought the League had done well to introduce the principle of peace by collective action.

ANCIENT INSTITUTION
"War is an extremely ancient institution and cannot be rooted out in a day. If the League can settle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, its members will renew their attempts to secure disarmament among the nations," he said.

He believed sacrifices might have to be made to secure world peace. Also the world needed more good men through the raising of moral and spiritual standards.

"I am going to dream of abolition of submarines, armed airplanes and an international police force," the Dean concluded.

MANY TICKETS ARE SOLD FOR DINNER
Owing to the large number of tickets sold, the Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, annual dinner will be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium on November 23 at 6:30 o'clock. Later in the evening those veterans will visit the frolie at the Crystal Garden, planned to celebrate the tenth birthday of the legion.

Working bees and drones are supposed to live from one to nine months, while the life of the queen bee is rarely more than three years.

CONSUMERS TO GET BENEFITS

Primary Producers of Fruit, Vegetables to Suffer Under Trade Agreement

Local consumers will benefit, but the primary producers will suffer greatly, in some instances facing a possibility of losing their business, by the terms of the Canada-United States trade agreement as applied to small fruits and vegetables, it was learned on reliable authority here yesterday.

Although terms of the treaty, in so far as dump duties are concerned, were not immediately clarified, it was generally believed these duties would be abolished.

If this is the case, wholesalers explained that American imports here would keep the price to the consumer at a low level. Early crop profits of primary producers, both here and in Ontario, would be eliminated under the treaty terms, it was said.

The example of hothouse tomatoes was cited. Hothouse tomatoes could be brought here at a much cheaper price during the early season than local producers could grow them. This would keep the price low, thus preventing producers from growing tomatoes profitably. It was stated that many hothouse dealers would be forced out of business.

Celery, lettuce, cauliflower and similar products were all in the same category, it was explained.

WILLIAM INGLIS DIES

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—William Inglis, sixty-eight, president of John Inglis Co., Limited, and past president of the Canadian National Exhibition, died suddenly today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lyman B. Barclay.

Carrying trade is a phrase used in political economy, and also in commercial transactions. It usually refers to the commerce of different countries with each other.

F. H. STEEDE DIES AT PORT ALBERNI

PORT ALBERNI, Nov. 18.—One of the most prominent residents of this city in the person of Francis H. Steede died here yesterday morning at the West Coast Hospital.

Mr. Steede came to Port Alberni about twenty-five years ago and carried on the profession of civil engineer, besides being interested in mining and fishing activities. For some time he sat as an alderman of the city and was elected mayor for the years 1929 and 1930. He took a special interest in the affairs of St. Alban's Anglican Church and for years was superintendent of the Sunday School and, being of a quiet and kindly disposition, endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact. He was born in Ireland about seventy-five years ago. Besides his widow, resident here, he is survived by one son, John, an employee of the engineering staff of the B.C.E.R., Vancouver.

PROPERTY TAKEN OVER

With the overthrow of the Bourbon monarchy, the revolutionists took over church property, and much in the same way as the Soviets have done in the past two decades, put some of it to other uses. They wanted the site of St. Germain for housing space, and summarily tore down the church that was then nearly a thousand years old. There they built houses which lasted until the present barracks were built in 1847.

There was one fortunate circumstance for the archaeologists. The level of the island was raised slowly during its some two thousand years of civilization, first by constant building and celebrate embankment against the floods, and finally by the construction of the present quays.

Thus, when the church of St. Germain was built over that of St. John, and when the city flats were built over both, the lower levels always remained. More than that, Grimaud hopes that below these will be found burial vaults or treasury chambers which will add more to the history reconstructed by the finds he has already made.

ARTICLES COMING FROM ENGLAND VIA U.S. CARRY TAX

Goods coming to Canada from England and entitled to the preferential tariff, must be shipped direct from the United Kingdom to a seaport in Canada. Any articles otherwise entitled to the preferential tariff, but transported via the United States, must pay the general Canadian customs rates.

This ruling was read at a meeting of directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, in connection with a complaint from a party, who stated he had paid a general duty on seeds, which he ordered from England and had come to him via the United States.

Similar cases, previously, drew a ruling from the National Revenue Department, the chamber was advised.

"What did the small boy say when you told him he might be President some day?"

"Not much," answered Senator Sorghum. "He said, of course, he'd take his chances, but personally he wasn't looking for trouble."

Jane Dixon Says:

FORTUNATE INDEED IS THE WOMAN WHO IS ECONOMICALLY INDEPENDENT SO THAT SHE DOES NOT NEED TO BE SUPPORTED BY A GRUDGING HUSBAND

Now for another round-up.
Friend in Need: If you neighbors and friends of the unfortunate mother and daughter, who are suffering such ill-treatment, will continue your kindness to them and make your approval of them very plain, I'm sure their burden will be easier to bear. Encourage the daughter to look forward to the time when she can leave her unhappy surroundings and take her mother with her, and to work for that moment with all the strength and determination she can muster. A way will open up to her at the most unexpected time and in an entirely new direction if she will keep her courage high and make escape from cruelty and wretchedness the main object of her life.

M.C.: Explain to your mother that her selfishness and lack of reason are arousing rebellion in your heart and that she is turning you away from her instead of toward her. There is no reason why you should not enjoy the company of the boys and girls your own age, and to participate in their good times. It is your right to do so. If your mother denies you this right, you will have to seize it for yourself.

Lonely: How would you feel if you were engaged to the young man and found he was going about secretly with a former "flame"? You wouldn't think much of his code of honor, would you, nor of the moral and social standards of the other girl who lent herself to such chicanery? It is time you ceased from your mind and heart the image of the man you loved, but who told you quite frankly he did not love you. If you will stop your fault-finding and make it a rule to look for the good in the young men you meet, your skies will clear.

HAPPINESS LIES AHEAD
Phyllis: You have the solution, my dear. Go away. New scenes, new faces. Not only will you forget a man who did not love you enough to brush aside a misunderstanding, but, if you will make up your mind you are going to put your mistake behind you, one year from today you will wonder how you ever could have looked at life and found it empty. He wasn't the right man. So toss out the broken image and begin your search for happiness all over again. It's waiting for you, somewhere straight ahead. You'll never find it by slumping down. Happiness is for the valiant hunter.

Disillusioned: You want to know my opinion of a man who says: "You don't think that just because a woman has children, it gives her a claim on a man for life, do you?"

My opinion of such a man is not very high, because he is brutal, or he does not make such a speech. The courts provide the very thing he denies. Fortunate, indeed, is the woman who is economically independent so that she does not need to be supported, either financially or morally, by a grudging husband.

F.M.N.: It is against the policy of this column to disclose names or addresses of correspondents. With so much to enrich your life, you should never be lonely. Don't you think you are failing to make the most of the opportunities that have been and are now afforded you? You have so much to bring to friendship and to romance that you should have no difficulty in locating either or both. The reason for your loneliness lies within yourself. Search yourself, find that reason and eliminate it.

Montreal Hospital Fire Takes Five Lives

Not only did Montreal firemen have to face a stiff blaze in the Saint Jean de Dieu Mental Hospital, but they had to overcome the panic of violently insane patients, four of whom dashed back into the raging inferno to their deaths. A fifth died of heart failure. Over $100,000 damage was done and thirty-five were injured. Many heroic acts were performed as nuns and firemen dashed into the flames to release patients locked in cells. WOMEN WANT TO SERVE ON BENCH

Australian Minister of Justice Hopes They Could Act as Advisers in Court

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Nov. 18.—Before the year closes women might be acting as jurors in Australia and also sitting on the bench. The Minister of Justice of New South Wales, L. O. Martin, has promised to introduce a bill to give women that privilege. They would not be presiding magistrates, but act as assessors in industrial courts. They would be permitted to express to the presiding magistrate, with becoming brevity, it is hoped, their opinions of the cases.

OLD AMBITION

The desire to do this has long held a place in the thoughts of women who are active in public affairs, and they are bent upon translating ambition into fact. The Children's Court is their first objective. They claim that they are better qualified to deal with young children than the ordinary magistrate. The Children's Court, however, deals with cases of youths aged eighteen years, as well as with younger ones, and even women advocates admit that a man is better able to deal with some older juvenile offenders than a woman.

MAY NEVER BE

They argue, however, that a woman's presence, coupled with a word in season to the man presiding, might be beneficial. Past and present magistrates do not all agree with that opinion. There are women justices of the peace, of course, in Sydney. Certain ardent feminists ask why they should not sit on the bench, but not even male justices of the peace sit on the bench in Sydney. It is said in quarters most familiar with the working of the courts that they never will.

Some time ago a young Irish farmer in the County of Kilkenny was very much in love. He wanted to marry the girl, but, being a shy lad, he couldn't for the life of him ask her outright to marry him. He felt he would choke if he tried to mention the words marry or marriage to her. So, after taking much earnest, shrewd thought on the problem, he asked her in a whisper one evening:

"Julia, how would you like to be buried with my people?"

Ole: "Did you hear about Wombat?"

Moley: "No. Let's have it."

Ole: "Four years ago his wife sent him to the city to match a sample of dress goods. And now he has just returned and says he couldn't get it matched."

Moley: "Did his wife accept his excuse?"

Ole: "No. She said he ought not to have given it up so quick."

ISLAND HORSES IN POOR SHAPE

Governor of Bermuda Says Animals Caused to Suffer Through Ignorance

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 18.—Still doing the work of the automobile, which is barred from the colony, the horse in Bermuda leads a poor existence, according to Governor Sir T. Astley Cubitt.

When Governor Cubitt unveiled a water-trough donated to the city of Hamilton by Northumberland Fusiliers to mark their stay in the colony from 1931 to 1934, he thanked the unit for its humane gift, then remarked to assembled Bermudians upon the "awful conditions" of their horses.

He recalled he had drawn attention to the "shocking" existence horses on the island led the first time he addressed Parliament in 1931.

For two or three years after there was improvement, "not due to anything I said at all, but due to the fact that we had a certain slump in the tourist trade," the Governor said.

AWFUL CONDITION

Bermuda had a big increase in tourist trade during the past year, and "the whole time I have been here I have never seen the horses in such awful condition," he told them.

Governor Cubitt thought there was no deliberate cruelty, but blamed the animals' suffering on "mainly ignorance."

He said he knew of no remedy for the condition, and the people would have to amend things themselves.

The Governor suggested tourists could help by remembering horses need occasional rest, and getting out of the carriage once in a while for a short walk.

"Here, boy," exclaimed the excited little man, as he rushed up to a page in a big hotel, "run up to my room and see if my umbrella is there. Hurry now, because I've just got five minutes to catch a train."

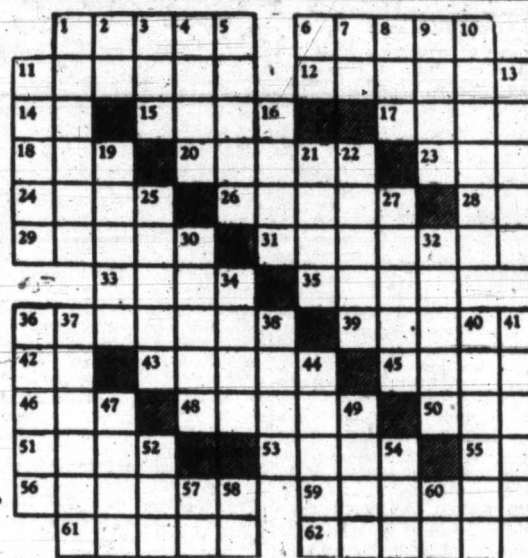

Three minutes later the boy came tripping down the stairs.

"Yes, sir," he said. "It's there all right."

"You seem to enjoy a football game?"

"I do," answered Senator Sorgham. "I find relief in an occasion when men can get enthusiastic and cheer without being worried over how they are going to vote."

MAYOR FROWNS ON EXTRA COST

City Council Informed Oaklands Auditorium May Exceed Original Figure

"If the Oaklands School auditorium is going to exceed $60,000, I want to know why," Mayor David Leeming declared at last night's meeting of the City Council when informed that there was a likelihood of the cost being in excess of this amount.

Duncan K. Kennedy, city building inspector, reported on the plans and pointed out that it was his opinion that the auditorium as now designed would cost more than the money allotted for the project. He advised the council to instruct the school board to see that the usual provisions for local labor and local supplies as far as possible.

The council acted upon his recommendation, but made it distinctly understood that no great excess in the cost of the work would be considered.

TWO TIED FOR FIRST PLACE IN RELIABILITY TEST

VANCOUVER-PORTLAND BATTLE IN THE GAME

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (U.P.)—Vancouver Lions and Portland Buckaroos played to a two-all overtime tie in a fast, hard-fought Northwestern Hockey League fixture here tonight that saw all four goals scored in the third period.

For two periods the teams played intermittently flashy but scoreless hockey, as the opposing goalies, Johnny Clark, of Lions, and Andy Aitkenhead, of Buckaroos, took turns in sprawling on the ice or outguessing the speeding sharpshooters with brilliant stops.

Tip O'Neill, diminutive first-string winger on the Vancouver club, opened the scoring after less than eight minutes' play in the third period. O'Neill grabbed the puck near his own goal and raced down the ice to outwit the Portland defence and snap the disc past Aitkenhead.

TIES SCORE
Ralph Blythe tied up the count four minutes later on a solo rush from centre ice that carried him in close to the Vancouver net and his scoop shot fooled Clark and bulged the back of the cage.

A minute and a half from the whistle, Brian Hextall sent Lions into a short-lived lead again with a whistling drive from just outside the Portland defence, but the puck had barely been faced off when Walter McGinty and Jack Arbour combined for the counter that gave the Bucs a draw decision.

McGinty, former Calgary star, took the disc from the face-off, drew the Lions' defence pair out of position and slipped a pass to Arbour, who came in fast for a clear shot that whistled past the surprised Clark.

Both teams fell back on defensive hockey in the extra session, apparently content with an even break.

ESKIMOS TRIUMPH
CALGARY, Nov. 18 (U.P.)—Edmonton Eskimos spoiled the Northwestern Hockey League inaugural here tonight for Calgary Tigers, winning 5-4, by outscoring the Tigers in a wild third period, in which marksmen found the net seven times. The victory reversed a 4-2 defeat Calgary handed Eskimos at the Edmonton league opening Saturday.

Bob Gilmour, Calgary defence-man, scored the only goal of the first period on a solo rush. Lorin Mercer, of the Eskimo defence, tied it up in the second, battling Ronnie Martin's rebound past Sam Tim-mins. As the third period progressed, Edmonton built up a 5-1 lead through scores by Ed Carriere, a rookie from Prince Albert; Art Townsend and a pair by Les Whittles, the right winger Seattle traded for their new playing manager, Art Gagne.

Unable to get past the backchecking of Louis Holmes, Calgary's first-string line of Norman Gainer, Tony Savage and Playing Manager Stew Adams, was kept off the score sheet until the dying minutes, when they combined with Chris Sorenson to send in three goals in the last ninety seconds.

Many of the patrons had left the arena before Sorenson, then Savage and later Gainer fired the puck past Red McCusker.

Smart Line of New York Hockey Squad

DAVE SCHRIENER

ART CHAPMAN

LORNE CARR

New York Americans, unable to project themselves into the charged circle of N.H.L. play-offs during seasons of major league play, expect to produce more goals than usual in the 1935-36 struggle. Much of their potential scoring strength is wrapped up in the first string line of Lorne Carr, Art Chapman and Dave "Sweeney" Schriener, and Manager Dutton expects some real attacking strength from the trio. Carr, dark-haired winger, who has served with New York Rangers, is a peppery forward who works well into the Amerk system, while "Sweeney" Schriener is the sniper who burned up the league as a rookie last year with his goal-rattling jaunts. Elongated Art Chapman, who pivots the line, gives the touch of experience to balance these youngsters. Art has been around a bit, notably as a Bruin, and proved himself a heady and able centre ice man.

Delegates Walk Out Of Athletic Meeting Protesting Strongly

Ontario and Quebec Representatives Leave Gathering of Women's Amateur Athletic Federation—Fireworks Start Early in Day

By ARTHUR MERKEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.
HALIFAX, Nov. 18 (U.P.)—The council chamber of the tenth annual meeting of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation became a deserted village today as Ontario and Quebec delegates walked out, protesting the proxy power held by the Maritime branch.

"Your federation faces a dangerous situation," Tom MacDonald, of Halifax, one of the advisory board of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, told the remaining band of faithful who were trying to figure out just what they would do without the presence of the central Canadians. The meeting adjourned until tomorrow to continue with problems that did not concern Ontario and Quebec directly.

Fireworks flared from the minute the convention got under way, when Miss Margaret Lord, of Hamilton, Ont., tried to pass a resolution cen-suring Secretary Ann Clark, of Vancouver, for interfering with the Ontario branch, by asking the Dominion body to investigate charges that the Hamilton Athletic Club was "cornering" all sport talent in that city, and then failing to attend the annual meeting to substantiate her charges.

ENDS IN ARGUMENT
The Ontario branch had shown indignation with Miss Clark ever since she went to last year's annual meeting with twelve proxies and her own vote to control all deliberation of the body. The morning meeting ended in argument.

The proxy problem also bothered the Quebec branch and when the two Ontario delegates walked out this afternoon, Miss Wain, of Montreal, telephoned the Quebec president, Miss J. M. MacLellan, of Montreal, and followed the Upper Canadian delegates to the corridor as a result of her long-distance conversation.

The action was interpreted by Amateur Athletic Union officials attending the meeting as the temporary withdrawal of the two branches from the federation. There are 2,200 athletes in the two branches, representing two-thirds of the total Canadian registration.

HOW THEY STAND
Wimp's Capitals 7 5 1 11
Hill's Corner 7 4 1 2 10
Victoria West Cubs 6 2 3 1 0
Esquimalt Meat Mkt. 6 0 6 0 0

Top berth in the Juvenile Football League will be at stake Saturday morning at Heywood Avenue when Wimp's Capitals, present leaders, battle Hill's Corner, second berth occupants, in the feature game on the league schedule.

Capitals took the lead last week when they came through with a 3-1 decision over Esquimalt Meat Market squad, while Hill's Corner, former leaders, went down to a 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Victoria West Cubs.

The other match on Saturday's card will bring together Esquimalt
Meat Market and Victoria West Cubs at Central Park. Both games will commence at 10:30 o'clock.
Borde will referee at Heywood Avenue and Holmes at Central Park.

Shower Baths to Be Installed at Royal Athletic

THE Royal Athletic Park at last is to have showers and sanitary conveniences for the players. Action toward this end was taken at last night's meeting of the City Council on the recommendation of the parks and boulevard committee.

The showers and sanitary conveniences will cost $500.
Alderman John Worthington, chairman of the parks board, explained that the money was available due to economies that have been effected during the year. This will be the first time that showers have been installed in Royal Athletic Park, although many representations have been made for this much-needed improvement.

SHANKS AND ESLEY TOP FIELD IN RACE FOR BRENTWOOD CUP

Veteran Members of Victoria Motorcycle Club Share Honors in Annual Reliability Test Staged Over Week-End—Jimmy Worswick Is Second—Winners Drop Fifty-Five Points

Dropping fifty-five points apiece out of a possible 1,000, Reg Shanks and Bill Esley, veteran members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club, finished deadlocked in first place in the annual reliability test for the historic Brentwood Cup, staged Sunday afternoon over a fifty-mile course.

Presented in June, 1914, the Brentwood Cup was competed for annually for a number of seasons, and then the competition was dropped. With new interest and a desire to revive the annual grind for the historic cup, members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club started the competition anew and, for the past few years it has been one of the most popular events staged by the club.

Early winners of the coveted silverware did not have their names engraved on the trophy, and with the renewal of the event, officials of the Victoria Motorcycle Club had the following inscription placed on the trophy: "To the unknown winner, 1914." Since the competition has been again placed on the agenda of the club, the name of the yearly winner has been engraved on the cup. This year, with Reg Shanks and Bill Esley tied for first place, both names will be inscribed on the trophy.

FIFTY-MILE COURSE Covering just over fifty miles of the back roads and trails of the Saatch Peninsula, the course for the riders in the Brentwood Cup annual reliability test is a tough one. Mount Douglas Park offered the first rough going of the journey.
From here the riders went out around the Sayward estate to Mount Newton Crossroad, then over to the West Road and south to a logging road that the competitors

call "Agony Boulevard."
After passing this section of mud and ruts, the riders headed for the Highland district, and then back to Prospect Lake. Leaving Prospect Lake, the competitors proceeded to Marigold, where the Panama Flats provided plenty of mud. The last lap of the course took the riders by way of Rogers Avenue to Quadra Street and then to Holmes Street and Linwood Avenue, where the final check was made.

In addition to placing in first place with Reg Shanks, Bill Esley which is given for the best showing in the mud and rough going, losing only four points. Jimmy Worswick, who finished second, lost six points in this part of the contest, while Reg Shanks dropped ten, and these robbed him of his chance of taking first honors by himself. Shanks lost forty-five points on time, while Esley, who finished deadlocked in first place with Shanks, lost fifty-one points.

FINAL SCORES

The complete list of the riders, and their final scores, follows: Esley and Shanks tied with 945; Wors-wick, 941; Frampton, 835; Baylis, 834; Stoker and Davies tied with 901; Smirl, 886. Rawnsley, Well-burn and Lake were all disqualified for failing to complete the final section of the course.

No trouble of any nature was reported, and checkers stated the riding, through the observed sections, was of a very high standard, while the results show the skill of the riders in setting their speed to suit the section to be covered.

The committee in charge of the affair was Jack Davies, Reg Williams and Bob Shanks. Mrs. R.
Shanks, Jr., served coffee to the riders at the end of the run.

Victoria Club in Shuttle Victory

Making a clean sweep in the women's and men's doubles and winning seven of the eight mixed matches, Victoria Badminton Club defeated visiting Duncan shuttlers, 15-1, Saturday evening in a Third Division, Lower Vancouver Island Badminton League, fixture played on their home courts. Scores, with the Victoria players first named, follow:

Women's Doubles
Miss Dunnell and Mrs. Pritchard won from Mrs. Christmas and Miss Buckmaster, 15-2, 15-3.
Miss Dunnell and Mrs. Pritchard

Chicago Blanks Rangers and Canadians Whip Amer- icans With Ease

By the Canadian Press
It used to be a pretty fair job playing goal for New York Rangers, one of the National Hockey League's better teams. The job is fast deteriorating until soon it may be expected even unemployed
Nethen will be passing Lester Patrick without a sign of recognition.

Dave Kerr, something of an acrobat, spent most of the week-end under the fire of Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks.
He played superlative hockey in the Rangers nets, risking life and limb, as it were, for a team that gave him little by way of return.

The Leafs trimmed the Blueshirts, 3-2, Saturday night in Toronto. Ker blanked forty-six shots. Then the Hawks administered a 3-0 setback to the Rangers in Chicago Sunday night. Kerr kept out thirty-five drives. These twin defeats made the New York record read three losses, one tie and one win in five starts.

Young Nick Metz and Andy Blair stood out in the Toronto triumph, with the red-headed Metz scoring twice and Blair turning in a smashing performance on the defence.
Charlie Conacher scored the other Leaf goal.

Glen Brydson and Cecil Dillon kept Rangers in the running with tallies in the second and third periods.

Paul Thompson, Don MacFadyen and Doc Romnes, who will hereafter be referred to as the first forward line of the Hawks, bagged three goals. Each member of the line collected three scoring points.
Thompson did the firing twice and MacFadyen scored the odd goal.
At Montreal, Tommy Gorman's Maroons made a belated debut with the assistance of Boston Bruins and won, 1-0.
Gus Marker scored the only goal in the first period with the help of Allan Shields and Bob Gracie while Bruins were a man short.
Making their first appearance of the season before the hopeful home customers, New York Americans succumbed, 6-6, to Montreal Canadiens. Jack McGill and the veteran 73 Adair Joliat whipped in first-period goals. Joliat fed young Art Lester, 74, a scoring pass in the second and 76 Armand Moudou, McGill and Johnny 76 Gagnon added goals in the third.

RUGBY SQUADS TO FIGHT FOR SECOND PLACE

Fixtures Billed Saturday at Macdonald Park—Three Other Matches

With the 5th Brigade safely landed at the top of the heap in the first half race, interest in Saturday's Barnard Cup Rugby fixtures at Macdonald Park will centre around second berth. Bays-Wanderers, now holding this position by a scant one-point margin over the Navy, can make this slot secure in the final first half standings by defeating the Canadian Scottish in their postponed fixture Saturday at the enclosure.

The other encounter at the enclosure will bring together the Tommies from Work Point Barracks and the Navy in a replay of their unfinished game of a few weeks ago.
There promises to be plenty of keen, friendly rivalry in this fixture, with a lone point separating the fifteen.
The sailors, in third place with three points, will be favored to take the measure of the soldiers and make their third place position secure. Games start at 3 o'clock.

SENIOR "B" GAME
At the Naval Recreation Grounds at Admirals Road, Garrison and Navy will meet in the fourth game of the senior "B" series, with the kick-off set for 1:30 o'clock. The series stands at one win apiece and one draw.

Two Intermediate League matches are billed. At Oak Bay Park, Wanderers "Whites" and Wanderers
"Blues." Oak Bay fifteens, will clash, while at the Victoria High School grounds Victoria College will tackle the 5th Brigade. Kick-offs are set for 3 o'clock.

At the request of the Navy representative, the executive members of the Victoria Rugby Union decided to make a change in the second half schedule of fixtures of the Barnard Cup series, to permit of the Navy fifteen playing all of its fix-

Deathless Family—A truly remarkable family is that of Sol Field, of Shenandoah, Iowa. This venerable head of a pioneer family has seven children of mature age, all married and raising families of their own.
The Field family of father, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren now numbers upwards of sixty years. Can that record be bettered?

St. Mary's Grid Squad Wins Over Santa Clara, 10-0

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 (AP).—A twelve-year-old "jinx" blamed by Santa Clara for their inability to win a football game from the Gallopers of St. Mary's since 1923, still held good today, as a result of St. Mary's 10-0 victory over Santa Clara here yesterday.

A field goal from the toe of big Herman Meister, left tackle, in the second quarter and a fourth-quarter touchdown and conversion gave the Gaels the game.

Herb Schriber, St. Mary's left half, climaxed a forty-five-yard drive down the field just before the end of the contest by going over for a touchdown from the two-yard line. Meister's dependable toe added the extra point.

DUBLINSKY WINS

Pitzer & Nex Chalk Up Seventh Straight Victory in Saanich Football

Blanking the Victoria Meat Market, 3-0, Sunday afternoon at Reynolds Road, Pitzer & Nex soccer eleven ran their winning streak in the Saanich and District Football League to seven games. Charlie Bell, centre forward, netted all three goals for the winners.

Playing in the curtain-raiser of the twin bill at Hampton Road, Marigold came from behind to eke out a 2-1 victory over the Bluebirds. Duncan's marker, the only score of the initial half, enabled the Bluebirds to enjoy a 1-0 lead as the teams reached the breather. In the final session Oseman banged home two goals for Marigold to give them victory by the odd goal.

Having a distinct edge in the play, Busy Bee Cafe snowed the Admirals under a 5-0 setback in the second game at Hampton Road.

Lorne Chabot, former Leaf goalie, now with the Chicago Black Hawks, is shown on the ice leaning on crutches as he received the Georges Vezina Memorial Trophy. The trophy, presented by Frank Calder, president of N.H.L., is awarded annually to the goal tender permitting the fewest number of goals during the regular season.

ELIOWITZ IS HEAD SCORER

Ottawa Grid Star Tops Scoring List—Noses Out Huck Welch—Burns Third

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (P).—The all-round ability of Abe Eliowitz, good enough to win the Jeff Russell Memorial Trophy this season, carried the triple-threat Ottawans to the scoring championship of the Inter-Provincial Football Union, a summary by the Canadian Press revealed today.

In a nine-game schedule which finished last Saturday, Eliowitz scored sixty-two points and took the championship from Hawley "Huck" Welch, Hamilton Tiger backfielder, 1934 winner. Welch, climaxing a brilliant late-season campaign with eighteen points against Montreal, failed to catch Eliowitz by three points.

The versatile Eliowitz scored most of his points kicking. He booted nine field goals, finishing second in that division to Tommy Burns of Toronto Argonauts, nineteen singles and six converts. He rounded out his total with two touchdowns.

To Welch, however, went honors for scoring most tries. Forced to do most of the backfield duty after Frank Turville's injury, Welch scored six touchdowns, besides kicking three field goals, seventeen singles and three converts, for a total of fifty-nine points. Burns took third place with forty-four points.

Tops Golf Field

Miss I. Jarvis captured the women's monthly medal competition held Sunday at the Macaulay Point Golf Club by finishing the eighteen holes with a net card of 72. Mrs. C. S. Brown was second with a net score of 74.

Financial Control Of the Americans Remains a Mystery

Several Interests Dicker for Franchise of New York Hockey Club—Ex-Owners of Canadiens Mentioned as Likely Purchasers

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (P).—New York hockey writers indulged in violent mental callisthenics tonight, trying to figure out where the financial control of the National Americans will come to rest.

Busy as one-armed goalies with the itch, the writers had the club falling into the control of such widely separated interests as Leo Dandurand and Joe Cattarinich, of Montreal; Colonel John Hammond, of New York, and James Norris, Sr., of Chicago.

About the only thing that seemed certain was that the present owner of the hockey club, William Dwyer, is about to negotiate at least a partial sale of the Americans. Comment from the principals mentioned was negligible. The only direct word that could be raised came from Mr. Norris, at Chicago. It was: "I have no intention of entering into any kind of a deal to purchase the Americans."

In the absence of official information, however, there was a record crop of rumors. Among them were the following:

That Norris, operator of Detroit Red Wings, holds Dwyer's note for $35,000, and with it an option to take over the Americans for a price reported as $150,000.

That Hammond, former boss of the New York Rangers, holds an option to take over the Americans, also for a reported sum of $150,000.

That Dandurand and Cattarinich, ex-owners of Montreal Canadiens, have offered $200,000 for the Americans, and will talk with Dwyer here, Wednesday.

That Dwyer wishes to take the Montrealers into partnership, but his hands are tied by options.

That Dwyer's plans to fly to Chicago today, to confer with Norris, was balked by high winds, but that he will fly west tomorrow for that purpose.

EVANS QUILTS AS MANAGER

Resigns Position With Cleveland Ball Club—Salary Is Cause of Move

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18 (P).—William G. Evans, general manager of Cleveland Indians for eight years, resigned today.

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball Company, announced the resignation and said it had been accepted with regret. At the same time, Bradley announced the office of general manager was being discontinued, and that C. C. Slapnicka, chief scout for the Indians for fourteen years, had been appointed assistant to the president.

Evans, an umpire in the American League for twenty-two years before he became manager of the Cleveland club, said his plans were "indefinite." His contract expires November 27.

He said his salary was reduced from $30,000 a year to $12,500 a year at the end of the 1933 season, with a bonus of 5 per cent of club profits, providing they reached $100,000. He said the contract offered for 1936 called for less than $12,500.

STEP IS TAKEN TO COMMUNISM

Joseph Stalin Promises Russians Welfare and More Cultured Life

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 (P.).—Soviet Russia, Joseph Stalin said today, has taken a "preparatory step" in its change from Socialism to Communism.

Opening the Stakhanovite campaign, by which production is being increased through an enlargement of the individual workers' output, the Soviet leader declared all citizens of the U.S.S.R. would have "welfare and more cultured life" under the new scheme, which he termed a "preparatory step" for the shift from Socialism to Communism.

Karl Radek, noted political commentator, in an official interpretation of Stalin's speech in the newspaper Pravda, said:

NEW LIFE COMING
"Stalin's words are a prediction that the time for this new life is coming and we shall live to see it."

Radek said Stalin was following in the footsteps of Nikolai Lenin, one-time Soviet leader. He called attention to the fact that Stalin had reminded his listeners of Lenin's statement that food and other necessities would be distributed according to need, under Communism, and not in regard to the purchasing power of an individual because of his working capacity.

The Stakhanovite system, called

"rationalization of movements" for the more efficient use of tools, is now being used in several factories and textile mills. The process has met great opposition, however. Several Stakhanovite workmen have been murdered and others beaten.

Prize Cows Win Awards in Three Classes at Show

At the dairy show at the Agricultural Hall, London, the Ovaltine Jersey herd swept the board by winning first prize in all three classes.

In addition, the herd secured the much sought-after extra inspection prize for the animal giving the greatest quantity of milk, and also the reserve award—the only two awards given in this class.

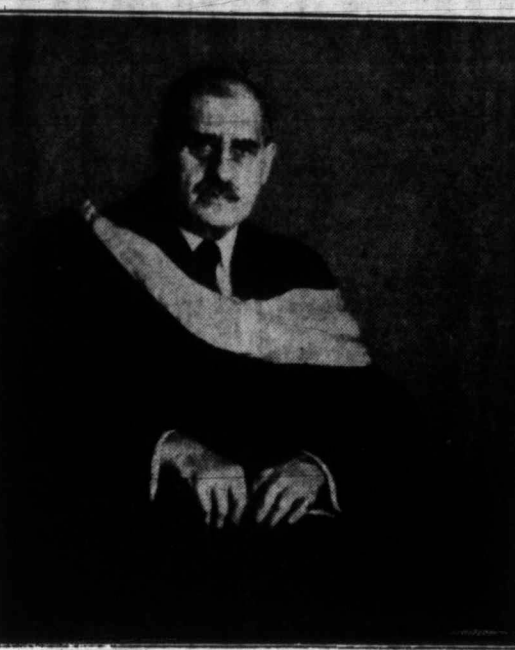

Every animal entered by the Ovaltine Dairy Farm secured a prize—a 100 per cent success and a remarkable achievement which sets the seal on the record season which this famous herd has enjoyed. The total number of awards gained in 1935 at the principal agricultural shows is no less than 115.

An Irishman went to a lawyer and made his will. It was duly signed, witnessed and sealed. Some days later the Irishman came back.

"How now, Pat," asked the lawyer.

"I have come to see you about the will," was the reply. "Faith, I have forgotten in it all about myself. I have given away everything and left myself not even a three-legged stool to sit on."

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF
Sir,—Could you allow me a small space in your valuable paper to advance a few views on our unemployment relief. I, myself, have been unemployed for over two years, and for several months have been on relief until recently. I have heard, and read, a great deal on this subject and controversy on the cost of same. In my humble opinion, a great deal of the expenditure could be eliminated if proper measures were adopted in the administration of relief funds.

Here are a few points on the same, that have come to my notice, worth consideration. We will take the case of the officials first. Why employ men, many of whom have other means of living, as relief officers and assistants, and why should every district have one or more foremen who, in most cases, do not need relief? Many of these men are the owners of large properties.

Take the average man on relief. He is allowed so many days' work a month according to the size of his family, and yet the relief foreman is allowed a month, or nearly so, of work, and in some instances only two in his family, self and wife. Why allow any one foreman or relief officer a full month's time at a salary that in many instances far surpasses what a good many business houses are paying? These men are on relief just the same as the ordinary person on relief, but I am sure it would take a lot of argument to make them see it that way, but they are, just the same. There is no getting away from the fact.

Here is a point I would like to have explained. On one or two occasions when interviewing a relief official I have been treated as if I were a beggar. Mind, I mention on one or two occasions only. I would like to know where we are to draw the line between the relief receiving parties—the workers and the officials.

I will admit there are many on relief today who do not need this assistance outside the numerous officials and foremen. What makes me smile is the fact that the only ones who can run a car on relief are the foremen and officials.

We all admit there must be someone to administer, and we also need foremen, but why not give these positions to men who have no other means of support? Why give the plums to those who already have them? There are some very able men practically destitute either on relief or unemployed who could handle these positions with ease. By putting some of these unemployed men into these jobs and the ones who do not need relief out of them, the number on relief would be lessened and costs would be lowered.

The relief worker does not put his heart into the job. It is only a means of existence and a precarious one at that.

There is a different angle to this question of relief today than five years ago. At first it was a mild form of charity. A man who was then forced to apply for assistance was ashamed to look his friends in the eye. Today it is the means, and only means, left open of a livelihood to thousands of men, who probably will never get a place in the scheme of things again; they have lost contact and are growing old.

Why cannot some public works scheme be put into operation, let out under able men who could hire and fire those who would not work. That would eliminate the chronic relief, excepting those who are unable to work, and those who would have to pass a medical examination.

SHELburne's PALMY DAYS

IN 1783 a large fleet of transports entered the harbor of what was then known as Port Roseway, on the south-western coast of Nova Scotia. Here two decades before an abortive attempt at settlement had been made under the name of "New Jerusalem." Now, their cause lost in the thirteen colonies, Loyalists had chosen this as headquarters of a great new community. Some five thousand came in that first party, and as many more followed during the next few months. They laid out a city which they confidently expected to become the greatest in British North America.

For a time it appeared as if their hopes would be realized. Governor Parr, short, stout and rather pompous, came to christen the new town "Shelburne" in honor of a British cabinet minister. It is computed that Shelburne, in its palmy days, had a population greater than

Wheeler and Woolsey Play Leading Roles in New Comedy Picture, "The Rainmakers"

Swift as a speedboat, novel as a circus and packed with laughter, "The Rainmakers," with Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, opens at the Dominion Theatre today.

Placing Wheeler and Woolsey in the roles of scientific "rain-makers," "The Rainmakers" offers unlimited opportunity for suspense and humor.

Starting with a recital of the woes of the bean-growing farmers of "Lima Junction" in California, Columbia — "Are You a Mason?" featuring Sonnie Hale.

Dominion — Wheeler and Woolsey in "The Rainmakers."

Little Orpheum — "Mystery Woman," starring Gilbert Roland.

Playhouse — Jeanette MacDonald in "Naughty Marietta."

the picture cuts back to a wild scene showing "Roscoe the Rain-maker" (Bob Woolsey) riding to the rescue through a terrific dust storm. En route he picks up Bert Wheeler as his assistant.

Arriving in Lima Junction the two scientists run afoul of trouble in the persons of the town's "leading citizen" and his drugstore cowboy son. To complicate matters further, Bert falls in love with the local banker's daughter.

Through the hilarious use of their rainmaking machine, Bert and Bob overcome all obstacles, however, and the picture races swiftly to an uproarious climax.

CAPITOL For the first time in THEATRE her screen career, Una Merkel has gone "musical comedienne!" She plays a featured role in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical, "Broadway Melody of 1936," currently playing at the Capitol Theatre. The actress is to be seen in the role of Kitty Corbett, a wise-cracking Broadway secretary, who is the nemesis of the gossip columnist, portrayed by Jack Benny. "I've played practically every type of role on the screen," she remarked, "but I never thought I'd find myself in the midst of an elaborate musical."

LITTLE ORPHEUM Among the previous screen successes of THEATRE Mona Barrie, featured in "Mystery Woman," which is now at the Little Orpheum Theatre, are "One Night of Love," with Grace Moore; "Such Women Are Dangerous," with Warner Baxter; "Sleepers East," "Charlie Chan in London," and "Carolina." She plays a starring role for the first time, however, in "Mystery Woman."

PLAYHOUSE The usual job of THEATRE "Musical Constructionist" fell to Gus Kahn, famous song writer, when he was given the assignment of adapting comic opera lyrics to the screen in Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," in which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presents Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy at the Playhouse Theatre. Kahn is a member of the song team of Kahn and Walter Donaldson, who have contributed innumerable hits to both stage and screen.

COLUMBIA A new comedy team THEATRE — one that is going to cause hosts of laughs in pictures for some time to come — is seen on the screen for the first time in the Universal's "Twickenham comedy success" "Are You a Mason?" showing at the Columbia Theatre. The leading fun-makers are Sonnie Hale and Robertson Hare, and they are perfectly cast in this production, for they make ideal foils for each other.

DANCES OF SPAIN TO BE PRESENTED NOV. 30

Tonia de Aragon, whom The New York World-Telegram described as "one of the most beautiful dancers to appear at the Guild Theatre," shared in the New York Triumph of Jose Cansino. Tonia is a protégée of Elisa Cansino, sister of Jose, and her early promise of rare talent made her practically a member of the Cansino family. Due to this association they form an unusually responsive duo in their art.

These two artists bring lovely and authentic studies of the colorful dances of their native Spain. Stately classics of Andalusia and Castile; intriguing measures from Moorish Granada, the verve and vivacity of the Spanish Gypsy, the drama and humor of the Spanish folk-dances are all united in the programme offered by these two greatest modern exponents of the dances of Spain on Saturday, November 30, at the Empire Theatre, under the management of Violet Wilson.

To the Wright Brothers goes the credit for the invention of the first practical means of obtaining lateral control whereby an airplane may be banked in making turns or kept on level keel laterally in rough air. The Wright invention was the warping wing, which undoubtedly had its genesis in their studies of soaring birds. The warping of the wings of the original Wright craft was possible because they were covered with undoped fabric. Hence such wing structures could be twisted easily.

The fabric on wings today is sprayed with several coats of "dope," a cellulose compound which contracts and hardens when it dries, hence making the fabric of the wings taut as a drum head. Obviously the warping of such a structure presented difficulties which were solved by Dr. Christmas with the invention of the aileron, a hinged surface on the trailing edge of the wing giving the same effect as warping. This same basic idea is used today, of course, with a great many detailed improvements.

TO BE FAIR GAME
Precedent, than which no editor of the Medes and Persians was more inexorable, will usually reveal and justify almost any usage of language in which we moderns indulge.

While this generalization should be taken in a spirit of latitude the extent of its prevalence is wide and curious.

Let us consider, for illustration, the word "game."

Here is a syllable that can be used correctly in almost any fashion that flits across the fancy, each with apparently diverse connotation, each harking back to a different allusion, yet all being part and parcel of the same root.

So, we say "he died game," indicating that to the last, he was brave and unyielding. "He has a game leg," meaning he is lame; "he likes the game," for he takes pleasure in the sport, contest or business; "to play the game," for to act straightforwardly; and many others, including "to be fair game," referring to a person who has been made an object of attack or ridicule.

The last usage originated as a hunting metaphor and made its appearance in the Fifteenth Century.

"And if the bull threatens to attack you," said a farmer to a rambling, asking his way, "just move your arms up and down rapidly, that'll stop him."

"Right said the rambler. But a few minutes later he was back, disheveled and panting vigorously. Bull chased me," he gasped.

"But didn't you move your arms up and down?" asked the farmer.

"I hadn't time," said the rambler. "I had to move my legs up and down, instead."

SEEK ACTION FOR SCHEME

Chamber of Commerce Directors Foresee Benefits From Housing

With a view of bringing the Dominion Housing Act into action in Victoria, and thereby allowing this city to enjoy benefits similar to those experienced in Eastern Canada, the Chamber of Commerce directors, at a meeting yesterday, empowered Harold Husband, vice-president, to name a committee to go into the matter.

John Johnson brought the matter before the meeting. He pointed out that under the scheme a person wishing to build a house, provided he had 20 per cent of the estimated cost, could receive a loan of 80 per cent from one of seven insurance companies or nine trust companies, and the Dominion Government would loan the other 20 per cent. These loans would be paid back over a long period.

Mr. Johnson declared such a scheme, in his opinion, would be welcomed by many in Greater Victoria, builders, plumbers and potential home-owners alike.

PRESSURE NEEDED
C. J. McDowell also thought great benefits would accrue from the scheme if it were put into action here. He pointed out, however, that he was of the opinion that "pressure must be brought to bear" before the insurance and trust companies would establish loan bureaus in this city. The speaker declared that Seattle companies catering to home builders were enjoying good business as the result of a similar scheme in action in the United States.

In California, J. O. Cameron explained, the housing scheme had given a new life to building, and millions of dollars were being loaned for such purposes. In California, persons can raise up to $5,000 from the banks, who are insured against loss by the Federal Government. The debtor pays back the principal, tax on the home and insurance, at approximately $40 a month over a period of twenty years.

"Women always romance about their age," says a novelist. With men, of course, it is just a bald fact.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

IN WHICH I LOSE A HAT

My sense of outrage at seeing a bridge hand horribly abused is similar to the fury we all feel when we see a horse being beaten. To me there is something sentient about cards, and this feeling is strengthened by the conviction, based on long experience, that they reward and punish players they esteem or despise.

I suppose it is only natural, holding this theory, that I receive a few rude shocks now and then. And I can remember none so rude as when I "kibitzed" an intimate friend (and supposed disciple) not long ago. I might say, by way of preface, that this particular friend is the most obstinate, perverse, self-opinionated person I know (except, of course, myself). I should have known better than to accept his invitation to "kibitz" and criticize his play.

The first hand made me feel that justice had departed this life. Neither side vulnerable. South, dealer.

"How'd you like my bidding?" my friend whispered while West was considering his opening lead.

"Very consistent," I answered. "Your four bids were equally atrocious."

"Is that so?" he sneered. "Well, I'll bet you a new hat I make the contract."

"Done!" I agreed, and eagerly. When the lead was made and the dummy exposed with the queen of spades looking enormous and five heart tricks apparently certain, I felt much less cocky. But maybe the spade jack would save my bacon by being three times guarded in either hand.

My friend glanced at the dummy only cursorily, and after winning the club lead, promptly ruffed his losing club with the spade queen. He returned to his hand with the diamond ace and played his ace and king of trumps, accepting as quite normal the drop of West's jack and nine. He drew the remaining trumps and discarded his losing diamond on dummy's fourth heart.

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why they are clumsy and sometimes smart and burns.

Any one of these symptoms means that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms develop into serious trouble.

To flush out waste poisons and acid from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put healthy activity into them, get a 40-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haasilin Oil Capsules and take as directed.

The trouble started when little Doris declared that she would rather have a half a jam tart than two-thirds of it.

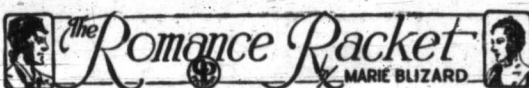

"How often have I tried to tell you," said the exasperated teacher, "that two-thirds of anything is more than half? Now you all know, she went on, 'that Doris prefers a small portion of tart to a large piece. Funny child, isn't she?'"

"Please, miss," said Doris, in a small, clear, piping voice, "I don't like tart."

Triplets Are Grown Up

One day in 1933, "Mrs." Colony Cyclone Hello, a pedigreed Holstein-Friesian cow, became the proud mother of triplets, and, needless to say, she was a very surprised mother. Since then the triplets have flourished until they are now three yearlings of exceptional quality, and their mother hardly knows them. Above is a picture showing the triplets shortly after they were born at Colony Farm, Essondale, B.C., and below, as they appeared when photographed together recently. Their sire is Carnation Romeo Posch.

CHAPTER VIII

Carol was on her way to New York for her first luncheon date with a man. As her train sped through Westchester, she tried to sort her memories and make order out of the chaos. She had tried thinking things out the night before, after the cocktail party, and all that followed. Instead she had slept and dreamed. And, strangely enough, her dreams had been filled not with Gary but with Owen Craig.

And seeing him now as she had seen him in her dreams, she saw his dark head again. Saw it contrasted with Gary Crandall. Crandall with his sandy hair, his sandy gray eyes and the faintly bemused expression he wore habitually. Gary so perfectly tailored. Gary with the broad shoulders and the tapering hips. The delicacy of his linen. The perfect arrangement of his pocket handker-have . . . I mean . . . I am going to forget I have it. You see, I have a plan. Are you on?"

"On!" said Isobel.

Carol's attention was on herself once more. Could this slim creature in the mossy black crepe frock that clung to her be herself? Her fingers touched the twin clasps of glittering brilliants that broke the stark simplicity of its velvety blackness where they held back the high neck.

She slipped into the coat of soft texture and stood motionless while the vendeuse buttoned the cape of silver fox high around her ears. A patch of fat barely covered one side of her head.

Still she was not smart. The heavy weight of her drab hair, the dullness of her complexion stared back at her in her beautiful new clothes. She was no Cinderella. Now the shopping was over and chief. The faint scent of masculine perfume. He was, Carol supposed, a perfect example of the smart man.

Her thoughts flew back to Owen again. To the antiseptic scent that clung to him. She hadn't seen him often but every line of his dark face, the way his hair grew about his temples, she remembered. In her musing, she saw him as he would look at his wedding to the lovely Kathy. How chic Kathy would be as a bride. Carol wondered if Owen would find her attractive if she were the girl Gary had promised to make her. Not that it would make any difference of course. Carol knew that she had no romantic feelings about Owen. Or did she?

Rather desperately Carol tore her thoughts away from that. She tried to concentrate on her luncheon date. What would Gary say to her today? For the first time in her life she became aware of the unattractiveness of her clothes. She wanted to show Gary, and she would!

It was only 11 when her train drew into Grand Central Station. She'd have plenty of time to shop. How should she begin? Isobel, of course, Isobel would help her. Excitement lent wings to her feet. She turned into Madison Avenue, where frocks and hats she'd never looked at before became beautiful in their temptation. She hurried to Isobel's office.

"Have a good time at the party?" Isobel greeted her.

"Wonderful. However, that's not why I'm here so bright and early this morning. I want you to take a little while off Isobel, and help me to buy some clothes."

Carol was waking up at last! "I'm just the woman you need, darling. But I'm to do the whole job. For once I'd like to outfit you the way you should be outfitted. I can give you an hour and then I'll have to dash."

A half hour later, a short distance from Isobel's office, Carol was writing a check for $750.

"It seems an awful lot for one dress and one coat," Carol said but she didn't say it remorsefully.

"Darling, don't be stingy with yourself. What's the use of having a couple of million dollars if you don't have fun with it?" Isobel answered.

"Isobel," Carol's voice was in earnest. "Not many people know I have the money and I'm going to ask you not to ever mention it. I shrug finished her speech.

she was in a taxi riding back to Isobel's office. Isobel could contain her curiosity no longer. "Darling, what does the big splurge mean?"

"Big splurge?" Carol asked without interest.

Isobel tried another line. "What happened at the party after we left?"

"Oh," Carol tried to say it lightly. "Gary Crandall rescued me and took me to the Consul for a cocktail."

How quickly one learns what to say. "Oh! There was a word of meaning in that syllable."

"Carol," Isobel continued, "Little Isobel seldom breaks the rule about minding her own business but here goes."

Carol waited. She thought Isobel was going to tell her not to see Gary Crandall again.

"If you're close to your cousin, Kathy Prentice, tell her to lay off Gary Crandall."

Carol didn't know what she meant. "Why, Isobel, my cousin is engaged to be married to Dr. Craig."

"I know she is," Isobel answered shortly. "But my naive child, engagements and sometimes marriages don't mean an awful lot to a lady when Gary is in the offing."

"But I thought you liked him?" Carol said helplessly.

"I do. He's swell. He's smooth, charming and dangerous."

"Do you want me to draw pictures? Or will you understand if I explain that he leaves a trail of broken hearts in back of him. Are you interested in him that way, Carol?"

Carol didn't answer. She couldn't find words at that moment. Something too startling had occurred to her.

"You see, darling, it isn't what Gary does to the foolish ladies; it's a state of mind they get into, and unless the signs are all wrong, Kathy Prentice is seeing lot of him."

Carol was shocked. After a little pause she said:

"Don't you think Mr. Crandall might have women friends? You know what I mean . . . that he just enjoys their company and . . ."

her voice trailed off weakly.

"I do not. Lots of women have tried being friends with him. It just doesn't work, my darling. He's a delightful person with all the charm in the world but . . ."

Isobel's shrug finished her speech.
